Killer Tornado Leaves Three Dead in Louisiana

CAMERON, La. (UPI) — A killer tornado and storm swept through the east side of tragedy-plagued Cameron Tuesday night and left at least three persons dead. Thirty-nine others were known injured.

Rescue workers dug through the ruins of homes and businesses today in search of other victims.

Wage Squabble Is Taken Under Advisement

District Judge John N. Mabry of Trinidad took the wage squabble between the district judges and the board of county commissioners under advisement late Tuesday afternoon.

During the hearing, accusations and counter-accusations of harassment and arbitrariness were made by both sides.

Denver lawyer Jim E. Carrigan, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, charged the commissioners had cancelled the individual telephone listing of the judges without informing them. He also said a directive had been sent to the court by the commissioners telling District Court employees when they had to appear for work.

In response, attorney James Tarter appearing for the defendants, contended the judges, referring to their suggested wage increases for their employees, had taken the "this is it or nothing" attitude. He also said the commissioners had "kept saying, let's talk about it," but the judges had refused.

The three district judges, G. Russell Miller, William M. Colvert and David W. Enoch, filed a complaint last year against the three county commissioners, Charles L. Smith, Fred H. Monk and Hugh J. Ross.

They claim that the commissioners, in denying certain wage increases set by the judges for

Expansion at St. Francis Is Being Planned

A major expansion program is planned at St. Francis Hospital, a hospital official confirmed today.

Plans for a new hospital wing are nearing completion and a fund-raising drive is tentatively scheduled for November.

In the absence of Sister Erhard, hospital administrator, officials today declined to release details of the proposed addition.

The hospital, which is conducted by the Poor Sisters of St. Francis, will mark its 75th anniversary Saturday.

C. E. Bascher, hospital business manager, said that reports published in a morning newspaper and announced on local radio stations "were premature and actually incorrect."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five brush and timber fires—the scourge of summer—raged across California mountains today after burning hospital buildings, oil storage tanks and a cowboy actor's famous ranch.

More than 30,000 acres were blackened.

In the north, vacationers fled resort areas. In the south, 800 patients were evacuated from a sanitarium. Flames advanced on two vital Nike missile sites. A powder works containing an estimated 100 tons of explosives was barely saved by firemen.

Flames licked to within 10 feet of the explosives plant.

The Southern California blazes, 15 miles apart, broke out within an hour of each other Tuesday, 40 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

Los Angeles County Fire Chief Keith Klinger said the fires were the worst in the county since the disastrous Bel Air-Brentwood fire last November, 15 miles to the southwest across the San Fernando Valley.

One fire swept over the San Gabriel Mountains into the San Fernando Valley, destroying an infirmary on the grounds of Olive View Sanitarium in Sylmar.

A fleet of ambulances, buses and cars evacuated 800 patients, most of them tuberculosis victims.

Some patients, rushed from surgery, still were unconscious, bottles of blood plasma suspended above their stretchers.

A Veterans Administration hospital two miles to the east also was threatened, but none of the 400 patients had to be evacuated.

One of the blazes threatened populous San Fernando Valley briefly. Earlier, it destroyed 75 per cent of cowboy actor Gene Autry's famed Melody Ranch. Autry had shot scores of television (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

New Red Nuclear Control Plan Rejected by West

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union proposed today that the world's nuclear powers halt all nuclear tests Nov. 1 pending agreement on a foolproof nuclear test ban treaty. Western sources said the proposal was unacceptable.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov made the suggestion during this morning's session of the 17-nation disarmament conference but did not table a formal proposal so there was no formal rejection.

He said Russia was prepared to sign a test ban treaty now, providing for a ban on testing in outer space, the atmosphere and underwater, and with underground tests halted "under an understanding that would remain in force until such time as a permanent solution is arrived at."

Western sources said this was merely the old Soviet offer of

Lefferdink Files Counterclaim Of $1.7 Million

BOULDER (AP) — Allen J. Lefferdink, Boulder stock promoter, filed in U.S. District Court Tuesday a $1.7 million counterclaim against three New York stockholders who sued him in 1960.

The three who brought the still-pending suit were Lloyd C. Miller and Helen E. Miller and Sidney R. Wachtel, who said they owned stock in Denver Acceptance Corp. of Lefferdink's enterprises.

They named as defendants Lefferdink and several of his companies. Their suit alleged manipulations in stocks, notes and advances between Lefferdink and several of the companies.

Lefferdink's counterclaim contended the complaint was filed without any reasonable basis for a belief the allegations of the complaint were true. He asserted the charges were "imagined and unfounded."

Lefferdink claimed the suit was brought "maliciously for a purpose other than the proper redress of a legal claim."

The junior colleges and the State Board of Education joined in the suit with the county commissioners as additional defendants and intervenors.

It is expected that counsel for the junior colleges, Garrett Fonda of Pueblo, and Perry E. Williams, Rocky Ford, will appeal the (Turn to Page 4, Column 5)

Mariner Rocket Hurtles On Steady Course to Venus

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Mariner-2 spacecraft hurtled through space on a steady interplanetary course today in quest of a close look at the planet Venus and a major space triumph over Russia.

Scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) said the instrument-laden vehicle was "doing remarkably well," and they were confident it would fulfill its mission in the unknown reaches of space.

The 181-million mile flight of the Mariner-2 is programmed to take the vehicle on a "fly by" within 10,000 miles of Venus early in December. An electronic eye will peer through the mantle of the cloud that perpetually shrouds the earth's nearest planetary neighbor and try to determine if the environment is compatible with any forms of life that we know.

NEW YORK (AP) — More than two-thirds of the people in Colorado and Wyoming are protected by some form of voluntary health insurance.

Between half and two-thirds of the population of Montana are covered.

The Health Insurance Institute, in reporting these figures today, said that New York State ranked first in coverage with 90.7 per cent.

Donovan to Seek Freedom for 1,113 Captives

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney James B. Donovan, who negotiated exchange of Soviet spy Rudolf Abel for U2 plane pilot Francis Gary Powers, is to leave for Havana today to seek the release of 1,113 captives taken in the abortive invasion of Cuba last year.

Donovan said at a news conference he will leave at a secret time and place, accompanied by two exiled Cuban leaders, Alvaro Sanchez Jr., president of the Cuban Families Committee, and Dr. Ernesto Freyre, secretary of the committee.

Sons of both Sanchez and Freyre were captured in the invasion attempt and are now in prison in Havana.

Donovan said the United States and Cuba granted permission for the mission.

Integration in Chattanooga Reported Quiet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Chattanooga quietly admitted 39 Negro youngsters for registration at six formerly white grammar schools today as the first step in a 7-year program of racial integration.

But none of the 32 white youngsters scheduled for registration at four Negro schools showed up.

There were no disturbances of any kind, as special patrols of city policemen kept traffic flowing past the schools.

The Negroes were admitted to first, second and third grades under federal court order, as the start of a program which foresees integration of all Chattanooga schools by 1968.

School officials said the Negroes admitted to the white schools include 11 first-graders, 16 second-graders and 12 third-graders.

Chattanooga had been scheduled to become the first Southern city to admit white youngsters to Negro schools, but no one was surprised when none appeared.

Police Burglar Given Parole At Canon City

CANON CITY (AP) — The first of a group of Denver police burglars convicted in the past year has been granted a parole.

He is Jack Snodgrass, 34, who will be released Oct. 9 after serving a minimum of 7 months and 22 days of his 1-to-5 year sentence.

He was convicted of larceny and burglary in the theft of $110 from a poultry concern.

His parole application was approved Tuesday by the State Parole Board.

Applications of seven other Denver police burglars were deferred by the board. They were filed by Harold Bailey, Carroll J. Prince, Joseph Schneider, Richard W. Kalber, James H. Thomas, Timothy D. Kreis and Lee E. Cox.

August Becomes Lethal For Colorado's Traffic

By THOMAS K. HARVEY DENVER (UPI) — Until August, mean there are more vehicles on Colorado's 1962 traffic death toll the road and, consequently, more accidents.

"If we can cut the accidents down the deaths and injuries," Carrel said, "we can cut the deaths and injuries."

Carrel said there was no pattern to the August increase in fatal accidents. Most of this year's deaths have resulted from 136 one-car accidents; only 99 persons have died in collisions involving two or more vehicles. Carrel said some accidents can be explained quite easily; others will remain a mystery because the people who knew what happened are dead.

"The only way to reduce the annual cost in human lives and property is to obey regulations, be alert and drive defensively," Carrel said. The chief said a driver must beware not only of his own mistakes, but those of others. There is no way of knowing whether last year's Labor Day snow—four inches fell—prevented the accident and death rate from going higher, but it did cut down on traffic.

"If we get good weather this year, there's another chance for a better record," the chief said. (Turn to Page 4, Column 9)

Citizens Band Radios Meet Emergencies

CHICAGO (UPI)—Operators of citizens band radios in the Cape Canaveral area recently joined police in the search for a man accused of killing a waitress near Cocoa Beach, Fla. The fugitive was caught an hour after the units were pressed into service.

A citizens band team in Sioux City, Iowa, set up base and mobile units to help local police during floods last spring.

A citizens band operator in Chicago was returning home one cold, snowy night last winter when he came upon a stalled auto occupied by a man, his wife and two young children. The car had no gas or heat and the father had no money. The citizens band operator called state police, who sent a car to the scene.

Citizens band radio is a band of radio frequencies established by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) exclusively for personal or business communications by individual citizens.

The FCC estimates there are now more than 700,000 citizens band radios in operation in the United States. About 5,000 of those fire departments, Civil Defense are members of a new national organization called Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams (REACT).

The movement to organize operators into an emergency network began last winter. Since then, 25 groups have been organized in 45 states. REACT is based in Chicago and is sponsored by Hallicrafters Co.

Earl Gray, national director of REACT, said the idea started as a volunteer emergency telephone network in areas where emergency communications are poor. Now, he said, Civil Defense authorities are expressing interest in the program.

"The organization can be most valuable in cases where power is out and only mobile equipment can be used," Gray said.

The Winnebago County, Iowa, group, for example, is affiliated with Red Cross, Civil Defense and volunteer emergency radio net units.

The Cape Cod, Mass., team covers more than 18 communities. It works with state police, local police, the sheriff's office, the National Guard, the Coast Guard, and terrain.

Wage Squabble Is Taken Under Advisement

District Court employees acted "capriciously and unreasonably." The judges have asked no increases for themselves.

On Tuesday the Association of Colorado County Commissioners represented by Denver lawyer J. Fred Schneider, requested and received permission to intervene and appear with the defendants.

Carriag told the court that the case turned entirely on the interpretation of certain statutes. The legislature is intended to place the power to fix salaries directly in the hands of the judges, he said.

Under the statute the commissioners have only the right to approve the salaries. As long as the judges act reasonably when salaries are set, and that the salaries are reasonable, the commissioners function is only administrative, Carriag went on.

The judges are much better qualified than the commissioners or anyone else to decide which of their employees should have a raise, the attorney stated. In some cases the commissioners had decided to give bigger wage boosts to certain employees than the judges, and smaller ones to others.

The actual difference between the raises set by the judges and those set by the defendants varied only about $45 per month, Carriag told the court, or about two cents per year to each taxpayer.

He quoted the constantly increasing number of cases handled each year in District Court and pointed out the difference in policy between the commissioners and judges in raising wages.

The commissioners believed in the seniority, the longer the service, the more money. The judges believed all clerks in District Court should be capable of doing all jobs. After six months each clerk's salary should be uniform.

Turning to District Court salaries paid in other counties, Carriag said El Paso County was the second largest in the state compared to wages paid in Adams, Arapaho, Jefferson, Pueblo, Denver, and El Paso.

Replied for the defendants, Tarter told the court that the increase set by the judges was an average of 23.3 per cent. The commissioners' increase was 10.2 per cent, and moreover, he continued, the commissioners had been willing to continue bargaining.

Tarter made reference to a wage survey made by the county in 1960, and alleged there had been an agreement between judges and commissioners to abide for two years by the findings. In failing to maintain this agreement, the judges had been unreasonable, he said. "The District Court must bring its salaries to a competitive level or face disaster. The wages are still competitive and it has not yet faced disaster," Tarter continued.

He stated the board of county commissioners had been represented by District Court as "a big bogey man, turning everything down without rhyme or reason." This was not so. An offer had been made by the commissioners for further bargaining and discussion, but the judges had flatly denied more negotiations," said Tarter. The defendants were objective and the judges unreasonable. "We don't have to show them as such, under the statute, as we are the defendants," Tarter concluded.

The judges were represented by Jim E. Carrigan and the Denver firm of Hindry, Erickson and Meyer. Attorneys for the defendants were Tarter and Tarter and Strand and Geddes.

MISS MARY E. FLOWERS

Director Named For Beth-El Nursing School

Miss Mary E. Flowers of Spokane, Wash., has been appointed director of nursing education and director of the Beth-El school of Nursing at Memorial Hospital.

She was assistant director of the School of Nursing for 16 years and served in other administrative capacities for 5 years at Deaconess Hospital in Spokane where she and these set by the defendants varied only about $45 per month.

Miss Flowers received a bachelor of science in nursing and a bachelor of arts (psychology) from Whitworth College and a master of nursing in nursing education from the University of Washington.

In her new capacity, she will direct the educational program of the Beth-El School of Nursing, the only school in the state authorized to conduct a 30-month program in professional nursing.

The school is approved by the Colorado Board of Nursing and the National League for Nursing. Miss Flowers' appointment was announced Tuesday by C. Franklin Fielden, executive director of Memorial Hospital.

In central California, 6,000-acre brush and grass fire near Mariposa was contained but a new brush and grass fire broke out in the same general region.

West Berliners Are Jittery Over New Nikita Talks

BERLIN (UPI) — Jittery West Berliners feared today that the East-West power struggle over this divided city is beginning to come to a head.

Most believed that out of the meeting between Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and East German leader Walter Ulbricht in Russia Tuesday would come new efforts to oust the Western Allies from West Berlin.

The first hint of things to come may be disclosed at Friday at an "important international press conference" called by the East Germans.

The Communists were vague about the Ulbricht-Khrushchev meeting, perhaps because Khrushchev also met Tuesday with U Thant, acting secretary general of the United Nations.

The East German and Soviet news agencies merely said they discussed "important international problems" in a "spirit of complete understanding."

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told the German people in a nationwide telecast Tuesday night that the situation in this divided city was "very tense."

But he said the west was prepared. "All possibilities have been considered and a decision can be made in all eventualities."

Ulbricht has been in the Soviet Union since Aug. 1, ostensibly on vacation.

We term officials believe he has been pressuring the Russians to carry out their four-year-old threat to end allied rights in Berlin by signing a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback George Shaw loomed today as a possible acquisition by the Denver Broncos in their quest for a star signal-caller.

Denver would get the first opportunity to sign Shaw if he decides to play in the American Football League because of a league agreement giving the Broncos first shot at any cuts from Detroit and Minnesota of the NFL.

Junior College Bill Found
Unconstitutional by Court

1960-61, which was before the effective date of the act.

It was the opinion of Judge Eckhart that the State Board of Education was in error in certifying this retroactive warrant.

Judge Eckhart ruled that House Bill 360 violates the due process clauses of the U.S. and Colorado Constitutions in that the act fails to provide procedures for taxpayers to contest the certificate of residency made by the students of the State Board of Education.

The ruling stated that the act does not include a procedure whereby taxpayers can determine limit or prescribe qualifications for students attending junior colleges; and that the act provides for taxation in the county which will be used by governmental units outside the county.

The court also ruled that the act violates the Colorado Constitution section which requires that all taxes be uniform upon the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax.

In his declaration, Judge Eckhart said he is sympathetic with the problems of financing junior colleges, but the rule of law provides that regardless of how laudable an act may be, it must be tested by well established principles.

Observers believe the explosions are the work of an organized anti-Communist terrorist movement taking shape in Red China's coastal province of Kwangtung.

CC Annual Fall Faculty Conference Set Friday

Members of the Colorado College faculty and administration will gather at the Paint Pony Ranch, near Woodland Park, Friday for the annual Faculty Fall Conference.

A high point of the conference will be a luncheon talk by President Louis T. Benet, who will discuss the "State of the College."

More than 125 teachers and staff are expected to attend the all-day meeting. The informal conference gets under way at 9 a.m.

In addition to participating in four panel discussions, faculty members will swim, play golf, tennis, softball, volleyball, and pitch horseshoes. Dinner at 6:30 p.m. will be a social occasion with no program planned.

A panel of four will discuss "Undergraduate Life on the Colorado College Campus." Conducting the discussions will be Prof. Kenneth Curran, chairman of the department of economics and business administration. Scheduled to participate in the talks are associate professor of history, Dr. Richard Blackburn, director of Paul Kutsche, assistant professor of anthropology. Dean of Men, Rastall Oden, and Dean of Women, Robin Rudoff, instructor in history.

Shaw was cut from the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League Tuesday, and the Broncos are interested in acquiring his services. Denver would get the first opportunity to sign Shaw if he decides to play in the American Football League because of a league agreement giving the Broncos first shot at any cuts from Detroit and Minnesota of the NFL.

Junior College Bill Found
Unconstitutional by Court

1960-61, which was before the effective date of the act.

It was the opinion of Judge Eckhart that the State Board of Education was in error in certifying this retroactive warrant.

Judge Eckhart ruled that House Bill 360 violates the due process clauses of the U.S. and Colorado Constitutions in that the act fails to provide procedures for taxpayers to contest the certificate of residency made by the students of the State Board of Education.

The ruling stated that the act does not include a procedure whereby taxpayers can determine limit or prescribe qualifications for students attending junior colleges; and that the act provides for taxation in the county which will be used by governmental units outside the county.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau, Station at Peterson Field at 5:30 a.m. today)

Tropical storm Alma, still packing sustained winds at 40 miles an hour near its center, has lost some of its strength over the cooler waters off New England and with it, the tidal hurricane.

At this time, Alma is located about 100 miles east of Nantucket Island, moving northeastward about 18 miles an hour, toward the Canadian Maritime Provinces.

Rains are still falling on coastal areas of New England with the heavier rains along the Maine coast. During the night, winds of 40 and 50 miles an hour buffeted the outer Cape Cod as the storm passed by.

Alma will not be remembered for the damage it did, which was practically none, but rather for the good soaking rains it caused over the drought-stricken areas of the northeast. The rains were spotty nevertheless and many areas were by-passed. A few rainfall amounts deposited by Alma during the past 24 hours include 3.56 inches at Randolph and 3.01 inches at Nantucket.

Elsewhere in the country, severe thunderstorms hit the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast during the night and morning hours with torrential rains and strong winds. A tornado at Cameron, La. around 11 p.m. Tuesday destroyed and damaged several homes and an unofficial report states that six persons were killed and other injured.

Lake Charles, La. was drenched by 9.01 inches of rain in the past six hours for a 24-hour total of 12.89 inches. Light rain was falling over sections of Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, and scattered thunderstorms were located over southern Florida. Along the west coast, fog was common with light drizzle falling in many areas. Mostly fair weather was the rule elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s and 70s east of a line from southwestern Texas to eastern Lake Superior, except for 50s in portions of lower Michigan and the Ohio Valley and Appalachians.

Readings in the 40s and 50s were common over the upper Mississippi Valley, the northern plains and northern and central portions of the Rockies and intermountain regions.

Reno, Nevada, reported a cold 27 degrees which breaks the record for August's low temperature.

Along the Pacific Coast, 50s were the rule with 60s along the southern California section.

Slaughter Leads
Greensboro Team
In NBC Tourney

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The Grand Rapids, Mich. Sullivan and the Enos Slaughter-led Greensboro, N. C. Rainey meet tonight to determine the fourth and final club to advance unbeaten into the fourth round of the 28th National Baseball Congress tournament.

Grand Rapids was runner-up for the national crown a year ago but will have to get past a hustling young club managed by Slaughter, the former St. Louis Cardinal star to move into a favored fourth round berth with the North Platte, Neb. Plainsmen, Milwaukee, Wis. Fawks, and defending champion Ponchatoula, La. Athletics.

Ponchatoula advanced Tuesday night with an impressive 13-1 victory over the Red Bank, N. J. Union House.

In other games tonight the Indianapolis Greyhounds (2-1) will meet Red Bank, N. J. and the Cherokee, Okla. Chiefs (2-1) face the Lubbock, Tex. Hubbers (2-1).

Currency Taken

Johnny Mathis Crackles With Enthusiasm, Wit

By DONNA LOGAN

Each star's dressing room is different. For Carol Channing it was blue eye shadow and false eyelashes. The judges have asked no increases for themselves.

On Tuesday the Association of Colorado County Commissioners represented by Denver lawyer J. Fred Schneider, requested and received permission to intervene and appear with the defendants.

Carriag told the court that the case turned entirely on the interpretation of certain statutes. The legislature is intended to place the power to fix salaries directly in the hands of the judges, he said.

Under the statute the commissioners have only the right to approve the salaries. As long as the judges act reasonably when salaries are set, and that the salaries are reasonable, the commissioners function is only administrative, Carriag went on.

The judges are much better qualified than the commissioners or anyone else to decide which of their employees should have a raise, the attorney stated. In some cases the commissioners had decided to give bigger wage boosts to certain employees than the judges, and smaller ones to others.

The actual difference between the raises set by the judges and those set by the defendants varied only about $45 per month, Carriag told the court, or about two cents per year to each taxpayer.

He quoted the constantly increasing number of cases handled each year in District Court and pointed out the difference in policy between the commissioners and judges in raising wages.

The commissioners believed in the seniority, the longer the service, the more money. The judges believed all clerks in District Court should be capable of doing all jobs. After six months each clerk's salary should be uniform.

Turning to District Court salaries paid in other counties, Carriag said El Paso County was the second largest in the state compared to wages paid in Adams, Arapaho, Jefferson, Pueblo, Denver, and El Paso.

Replied for the defendants, Tarter told the court that the increase set by the judges was an average of 23.3 per cent. The commissioners' increase was 10.2 per cent, and moreover, he continued, the commissioners had been willing to continue bargaining.

Tarter made reference to a wage survey made by the county in 1960, and alleged there had been an agreement between judges and commissioners to abide for two years by the findings. In failing to maintain this agreement, the judges had been unreasonable, he said. "The District Court must bring its salaries to a competitive level or face disaster. The wages are still competitive and it has not yet faced disaster," Tarter continued.

He stated the board of county commissioners had been represented by District Court as "a big bogey man, turning everything down without rhyme or reason." This was not so. An offer had been made by the commissioners for further bargaining and discussion, but the judges had flatly denied more negotiations," said Tarter. The defendants were objective and the judges unreasonable. "We don't have to show them as such, under the statute, as we are the defendants," Tarter concluded.

The judges were represented by Jim E. Carrigan and the Denver firm of Hindry, Erickson and Meyer. Attorneys for the defendants were Tarter and Tarter and Strand and Geddes.

West Siders Meet
Carson All-Stars
In Final Tune-Up

Tonight at 8:15 the Ft. Carson All-Stars will tackle the number two team from the Colorado Open Tournament. The game is scheduled to be played at diamond No. 3 in Memorial Park. This will be the last chance for the softball fans of Colorado Springs to watch the Merchants play before they go to the Rocky Mountain Regional, which is to be played in Cheyenne, Wyo., over the Labor Day weekend, bringing together the top twelve teams from Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming.

Tonight's game will pit the best softball players of Ft. Carson against West Side Merchants. A free will donation will be taken for the express purpose of helping the West Side Merchants team to make the trip to Cheyenne.

Motel Tenant Loses
Wallet With $55 Cash

John P. Connolly of New Orleans, La., told the sheriff's office Tuesday that his wallet had been stolen when he was staying at a motel at 128 E. Navajo St., Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Walters said Connolly told him the wallet was under his pillow when he went to sleep. He went out to breakfast the following morning and when he returned it was gone. It contained $55 in cash and various personal papers.

brush. In Northern California, firemen were battling two stubborn blazes which destroyed over 16,000 acres of timberland.

One fire, which started Sunday at Kelseyville 80 miles north of San Francisco, sent 1,000 tourists fleeing the area. Firemen say 9,500-acre blaze, 75 per cent contained, may have been deliberate.

A second fire near Lake Shasta, 200 miles north of San Francisco, is reported 85 per cent contained after burning 6,912 acres.

In central California, 6,000-acre brush and grass fire near Mariposa was contained but a new brush and grass fire broke out in the same general region.

Firemen estimate it had burned 7,200 acres.

The second blaze erupted in Placerita Canyon, spreading southeast into the Sylmar area, closer to heavily populated areas. It had destroyed 8,300 acres of the Roberto Iglesias Spanish Dancers. Thursday night he'll dance with them, complete with a gaucho hat, Spanish dancing boots and a handmade silk suit with Spanish powder and makeup, and a jump line which, as Johnny says, is a bit of boxes.

For Marlene Dietrich it was a sophisticated quietness with an air of glamorous gowns and cold-cream Kleenex.

But for Johnny Mathis, it's electric. Flitting around on a hunt for cufflinks, Mathis will do a Spanish flamenco step, sing a Spanish tune, take your picture with his new miniature Minox comb his wavy hair, and tell you what it feels like to be a millionaire at age 16.

Wiry Johnny, one of the best dancing singers in the business, who can do a split and a high kick with a slide in between, is a shot in the eye with the way. And he has to be.

Zooming up to a pressurized career that keeps him busy most of the year, Johnny Mathis is Thursday night's most popular ballroom singer in the business for young people.

His 17th record album, "Rapture," is being released Dec. 10. He has a new single titled, "Gina," an Italian song, which will probably shoot his single sales way over the 10 million mark, and he is cast as a Peruvian saint in a Mirisch Production movie to be shot in Peru in January.

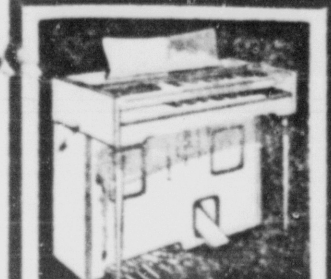

Of all the songs he's done, Johnny's favorite is a 1926 ballad — "Sweet Moments Like That" — one which he picked up in the New York Public Library where he does research on old tunes.

Poll Tax Issue To Be Given To 50 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress submitted to the 50 states today the question of making it unconstitutional to require payment of poll taxes as a qualification for voting for federal offices.

Final congressional action was taken when the House passed a resolution, previously approved by the Senate, submitting the issue to the states in the form of a proposed amendment to the Constitution.

Presidential action on the resolution is not required.

If ratified by 38 states within seven years, the amendment would become operative and the five states now having poll tax laws no longer could enforce them except in elections involving state or local officials.

The five states are Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

Most members from those states opposed the resolution, which required approval of two-thirds of the voting members for passage.

The Senate passed the resolution by a vote of 77-16 on March 27.

Today's House vote climaxed a fight started in 1959 and continued in every Congress since then. The House previously had passed anti-poll tax bills five times and the Senate twice, but never before could the two branches agree on final action.

Dutch to Approve Indonesian Bid

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Foreign Minister Joseph Luns introduced a bill in Parliament Monday night to approve the Dutch-Indonesian agreement on the transfer of West New Guinea.

The lower house will meet Sept. 6 in special public session to discuss the bill, officials said.

Brig. I. J. Rikhye, U.N. Secretary General U. Thant's military adviser, said Monday that the United Nations will drop thousands of leaflets over West New Guinea this week, telling the Indonesian guerrillas to come out of hiding. The leaflets will tell Indonesians fore could the two branches agree on final action.

Liquor License Grant Upheld by High Court

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado Supreme Court upheld today a ruling by District Court at Montrose, granting a liquor license to a restaurant in the western slope city.

The restaurant is owned by Mary S. Ensley, who has contracted to sell it to Claud E. and Pearl L. Roberts if a liquor license was approved.

The Montrose City Council voted to grant the cafe a license although 904 persons signed a petition of protest. Dist. Judge E. L. Dutcher sustained the council's action.

His ruling was appealed to the Supreme Court, which upheld it in a unanimous decision.

Wool Growers Assn. Relocated In Montrose

Relocation of the Colorado State Wool Growers Association office from Denver to Montrose, Colorado, effective September 1, was announced Monday by Robert Field, Executive Secretary.

Although the move is to economize on State Association office expense, Field indicates that there will be little if any change in activities and representation for the Colorado sheep industry. The address of the Colorado State Wool Growers Association will be Montrose, Colorado, and the Executive Secretary may be reached at any time by telephone at 249-9318.

The Colorado State Wool Growers Association is the only statewide organization of all sheep producers. It was organized in 1926 for the purpose of providing a unified voice for the Colorado sheep industry and to promote, protect, and to serve that industry. The Association has been located on the Western Slope in earlier years, however, since 1950 has been operated on a full time basis at its stockyards location near the National Western Stock Show grounds. The Association has some 1,000 sheep producers and lamb feeders as members and whose membership represents the major portion of sheep production in Colorado.

Regions Increase Feed Tonnage Output

Six of nine regions increased feed tonnage during January-June above the same period of 1961. The East North Central and New England Regions decreased one percent and the East South Central Region was the same as a year earlier.

According to the report, the largest increases occurred in the West. The Pacific Region increased 14 percent, while both the Mountain and West South Central Regions were up five percent.

Baptists Are Alarmed About Consolidation

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Baptist Bible Fellowship International says it is alarmed at the "growing trend in both Protestant and Roman Catholic circles to bring about consolidation of all communions and denominations."

Delegates to the fellowship's convention adopted a resolution Tuesday declaring "our firm intention of protesting openly and publicly every movement toward organizational unity which compromises the word of God, at the same time maintaining our absolute autonomy."

The fellowship represents 1,251 churches with about one million members. It is independent of the major Baptist organizations.

Florissant News

By MRS. BEN GARVER

KARACHI—A Pakistan firm is asking for bids on the establishment of a sugarcane mill in the western part of this country.

A new cinder block building at Florissant is nearly completed, built by Dr. Stewart and his geology students and teachers from Waynesburg College in Pennsylvania. It will hold the large lapidary collection used by the students for their geological studies, which has been collected for a number of years and continues to grow in size. The Jim Schroyers and Dr. Stewart and the students left this week to resume school at Waynesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lasley spent a short time here visiting old friends enroute to their home in Perris, Calif. They visited the Murphy Lasley family in Deer Trail, attending the graduation of one niece from college at Greeley and the wedding of another niece.

Recent houseguests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nate Snare were Mr. and Mrs. Arch Shelton and Mrs. Dorothy Rouyer and son, Dick, from Kansas City, Kan. They also visited members of their family in Denver. Mrs. Rouyer is the daughter of the Sheltons.

A recent family get-together was held at Prospect Lake in Colorado Springs to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moreland back into civilian life. A picnic and boating were held and present were Mrs. Jim Smith, Mrs. and Mrs. Les Davis and children, Jimmy Smith and son, Rusty, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Schoen and children and the Jesse Morelands.

Ole Jensen of Iowa who owns a ranch at Lake George, the former Moran property, has been a business visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller were in Salida last Wednesday, receiving a medical check up. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goldsby and daughters report a thrilling trip to the West Coast and World's Fair at Seattle, returning last week.

CC Grad Lived in Jungle With Only Salt, Machete

A Colorado College graduate who lived for three months in the jungle, which has no alphabet, he said, "but gives of southern Mexico with only a machete and a hand - full of salt, has returned to the academy to be able to understand the emic world and is writing a mass Bible."

Not all of that time actually would be spent in the jungle, however, he explained. There would be vacations and short periods at translation centers.

An old hand at teaching, Wilkinson got his first classroom experience in 1966 at East Junior High School in Colorado Springs. He later taught at Horace Mann.

He is David B. Wilkinson, 31, former Colorado Springs junior high school teacher, who has been working on his master of arts degree in education at the independent college of arts and sciences.

Wilkinson said when his thesis is completed this fall, he will be sent to British Columbia in South America by the Wyckoff Bible Translators to translate the New Testament into the language of an Indian tribe there.

Philippine Army General Lauds 5th Division

Maj. Gen. A. H. Manhart, 5th Infantry Division, Mechanized, commander and members of his command at Ft. Carson have received an enthusiastic letter of friendship from Brig. Gen. Ricardo G. Pappa, commander of the 5th Infantry Division, Philippine Army.

General Pappa extends his warm greetings to you and through you to the officers and men of the 5th Infantry Division, Mechanized.

"I received your token of adoption. It now hangs conspicuously in my office among equally treasured relics of the division," he writes.

"We of the 5th Infantry Division, Philippine Army, are truly grateful and take inestimable pride in being the first unit of the Armed Forces of the Philippines to have been accorded this privilege and signal honor of adoption by a Division of the United States Armed Forces."

"We are certain that this will go a long way in the promotion of better understanding among our peoples and further enhance the effectiveness of our common efforts in preserving the ways of freedom and democracy."

"I am submitting a copy of your letter to the Chief of Staff, Armed Forces of the Philippines, so that official cognizance thereof will be taken by my government."

"May this be the beginning of a lasting friendship between our two commands. For our part, we shall endeavor to continuously merit your esteem and regards."

General Pappa wrote that he had waited at the signal light while southbound on Spruce Street Friday afternoon and when it turned green she entered the intersection, not seeing the other car until the collision. She added that a pedestrian who was waiting to cross the street on Colorado Avenue, started forward a couple of steps and then returned to the curb when he saw the light was against him.

Mrs. Boulton told the court that the light was green as she approached the crossing and remained so after she entered the intersection. She also mentioned that she took her eyes from the street for several seconds to watch a truck parked nearby, just prior to the collision.

Hardeman ruled that Mrs. Elliott apparently entered the intersection without allowing the crossing to clear of traffic.

Other traffic cases were: Richard Supe, 21, of 1924 S. Ritchie St., careless driving $25, Stanley Gossage, 17, of 2302 Wolff Pl., careless driving, case dismissed; Dorothy Fine, 26, Vessey Road, Black Forest, careless driving and damage to city property, $50, $40 suspended when the damage is paid; David Willis, 21, Ent., careless driving and damage to city property, $25, $300 suspended when the damage is paid; Daryl Hirt, 24, Ft. Carson, careless driving, $15.

BARK PAPER PAINTING — George T. Mills (left) assistant director of the Fine Arts Center and curator of the Taylor Museum listens to a detailed explanation of a Balinese bark paper painting by Tjokorda Mas, director of the Ubud Art Museum in Bali. Tjokorda included the Fine Arts Center on a nationwide Rockefeller Foundation tour because of its collection of Balinese art.

Balinese Prince Visits Springs Fine Arts Center

The Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center, one of the few American museums to possess a collection of Balinese paintings, was honored this week by the visit of Tjokorda Mas, a Southern Balinese prince and director of the only art museum in Bali, Indonesia.

Tjokorda, who has been in this country to study on a Rockefeller Foundation grant, is currently on a country-wide tour of art museums to study their methods and collections.

He is director of the Ubud Art Museum, only museum in Bali, which was established in only 1957.

The tour, which concludes a two-year stay at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, is to gain knowledge from more experienced museum which Tjokorda will take home with him on his return to Bali. The tour has included museums in California, Oregon and Washington and will extend to New York, London, Paris, Germany, Rome and India.

Tjokorda's visit to the Fine Arts Center was hosted by George T. Mills, assistant director and curator of the Taylor Museum which contains the Balinese collection.

Mills said Tjokorda was most happy to find a Balinese art representation at the Fine Arts Center, particularly since collected art in his country does not date much prior to the beginning of the 20th century.

Artists in that country, he said, are only now beginning to paint from everyday life and the 160 paintings now in the Bali museum date only from 1931.

Altho the museum must be lighted by the sun as there is no electricity, Tjokorda said there are plans to expand the facilities to include a place for exchange of exhibitions with other countries, particularly the United States.

While at UCLA, Tjokorda has been associated with the Institute of Ethnomusicology where he has taught Balinese music and participated in Balinese and Javanese concerts.

Caution Urged In Building Fires In City Parks

Residents and visitors in the Pikes Peak region were urged today to use extreme caution when building fires in Palmer Park, the Garden of the Gods and North Cheyenne Canon.

James Taylor, director of the City Park and Recreation Department, said the brush and timber in the city-owned parks is tinder dry because of the hot weather and lack of precipitation.

Unless extreme caution is used, and if it doesn't rain fairly soon, Taylor said it may be necessary to prohibit picnic fires in the city parks.

Pittman received his BA degree from Sam Houston College in Austin, Texas, and got his master's from Texas Southern University in Houston.

While working on his master's, Pittman studied criminal homicide among three ethnic groups in Texas: Mexicans, Negroes and whites.

His study took up the case histories of some 500 persons in the San Antonio, Texas, area. He said his findings showed that when a Mexican male kills a Mexican female, invariably the male showed no remorse after the killing. This was also true in like cases among Negroes, he said.

But in the incidents of white males killing white females, Pittman said the pattern was usually a case of suicide following the murder.

Mrs. Pittman also received a master's degree from Texas Southern and is an elementary teacher at the Carver School in Chicago.

According to her husband, she compiled her thesis on the reading habits of Negro children ranging in age from 5 to 12 years. Pittman said she found that the favorite reading material for the children was the Bible, and discovered this was based on the fact that this book is practically the only reading matter many Negro families owned in that state.

Mrs. Pittman and the couple's three children, Sample Jr., 9, Ava, 4, and Nicholas, 17 months, are also visiting here. She will return to her teaching duties in Chicago until Pittman is situated in New York. The family will leave Colorado Springs today.

Sample Pittman, son of Mrs. Lenora Hubert, 2523 E. San Rafael, arrived in Colorado Springs Sunday to visit his mother and sister, Mrs. Arthur Sapp of 919 S. Weber.

Formerly a sociology teacher at the Wilson branch of the Chicago City Junior College, Pittman has been appointed as a research assistant in the Center of Human Relations and Community Studies at New York University where he will also study for his Ph.D. under Dr. Dan Dodson.

During his six years in Chicago, Pittman, 37, was a child guidance counselor for the Illinois State Training School for Boys working with psychologists and psychiatrists with emotionally disturbed children; served as a juvenile parole agent as a member of the Illinois Youth Commission, and was assistant director of the Migration Services on the Mayor's Committee for New Residents in Chicago.

In his work with the Migration Services, Pittman dealt with Puerto Ricans, Negroes, Mexicans and southern whites, helping them to get re - located in Chicago and aiding in their adjustment to strange surroundings.

Pittman said he found no animosity among the southern whites against him as a Negro and felt this was because they too found themselves a "minority group" in Chicago. He spent some time studying the "store front churches" which have sprung up in the heavily populated areas where many of the whites are living, he said.

Sprague Appointed To Museum Board

Marshall Sprague, 1523 Wood Ave., was named Tuesday by the City Council to the Pioneer Museum Board.

He will fill the unexpired term of the late Martin Drake, who died May 29. The term will extend to May 9, 1965.

Sprague, who has long been active in civic and cultural affairs in the Pikes Peak Region, is the author of "Money Mountain," "Newport in the Rockies," and other works.

Trailer House Vandalism Reported

Vandals smashed the windows in a trailer house on Galleys Road and scattered the contents, the sheriff's office said Tuesday.

The trailer belongs to Donald Bruhm, of 724 S. Sawatch St. Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Barry and Vincent Denboske reported. It is not known yet if anything was taken.

Man Charged With Confidence Game

Charges of practicing a confidence game were filed in district court Tuesday against L. E. Belcher, 25, of Mount View, Calif.

It was alleged that Belcher obtained $215 from the Broadmoor Hotel July 30. Bond was set by District Judge William T. Eckhart at $5,000.

$260 Tape Recorder Reported Stolen

A $260 tape recorder was stolen from Bob Bauvelt of the KLTST Broadcasting Co., 802 E. Fillmore St., the sheriff's office reported Tuesday.

Bauvelt told Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche that he had been absent for three weeks. The recorder is a Viking, model 86, and a stereo compact with gold bottom and silver top.

$5,000 Bond Set On Marijuana Suspect

A bond of $5,000 was set by District Judge William T. Eckhart Tuesday for Ladislado T. Rosales, 37, Manitou Springs.

Rosales was charged with being in possession of marijuana Aug. 26.

Biery Talks City Budget at Breakfast Meeting

The age - old problems of budgeting, and the specific problems of budgeting for the City of Colorado Springs were discussed by John M. Biery, city manager, before the weekly breakfast meeting of the Colorado Springs Executive Association today.

Biery, in challenging the group of businessmen to attend this year's budget hearings in September, pointed out that Colorado Springs still has a legal limit of 20 mills for city taxation purposes and this past year charged taxpayers 15.97 mills.

The rest of the taxpayers' 70.88 mills has been coming from school district 11 (28.56), county operations (12.00 for schools and 12.50 for other county operations), state (1.45) and southeastern water district (4.0).

The city manager also corrected for the executives group the opinion held by many citizens that taxes supported most of the city's budget. Of an annual operating budget of approximately $24,000,000 for the past few years, only $1,700,000 has been collected in city taxes. The remainder of the operating budget comes from collection of fees, assessments, utilities and the many other sundry items.

Biery reminded the group that there are three main divisions of city government — budget-wise. Such departments as fire, police, parks and streets are supported almost entirely by taxes.

The second division represents airport, cemetery and the Pikes Peak Highway, which are primarily self - supporting departments, where revenues equal or approximate expenditures.

The third division is the utilities department, which not only supports itself and helps many other departments, but also currently provides $700,000 revenue to the city.

The Executives Ass'n. is currently in a series of programs devoted to public affairs and political education. President of the organization is Clinton Woodruff, with George Palmer and James Russell heading the public affairs committee.

Council Denies Request to Install Drainage Conduit

The City Council Tuesday denied a request of developer Sam Gordon for the city to install some 200 feet of 84-inch drainage conduit across East Bijou Street in Palmer Heights Subdivision No. 3.

The council had earlier refused to waive Gordon's drainage fees. He contended that since he paid drainage fees of approximately the same cost of the sewer installation, estimated at $13,000, the city should install the pipe.

Several councilmen stated that it is up to the city to determine where drainage lines should be installed. Public Works Director James J. Murray said he did not recommend installing a line in the location proposed by Gordon.

Attempt to Rob Same Firm Trips Thief

Attempting to burglarize the same place of business on successive nights led to the downfall of a 14-year-old boy who was nabbed by police at 12:15 a.m. today at the Tastee Freeze, 2309 N. Weber St.

Police Officers Leonard Huscher and Donald Tagert reported that they apprehended the youth after watching him break a window of the building with a rock. Authorities said the youth admitted breaking the window the previous night and stealing $5 from the cash register located near the opening.

The boy told police that he had sneaked out of his bedroom window after his parents had retired and went to the building where he stole the money Monday night.

Memorial Park Model Shown at ITU Meeting

James Taylor, director of the City Park and Recreation Department, said today that a model of proposed developments in Memorial Park was shown at the recent annual meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio, of the International Typographical Union.

Photographs were also displayed at the convention to show the proposed network of roads thru the park.

The new ITU training center and headquarters building is located just east of Memorial Park.

Taylor said it is hoped to start advertising for bids on the paving of the park roads late this week or early next week. The City Council has already authorized such action.

'Joy Riding' Results In Jail Sentence

Gary Martin Rose, 18, Hickville, N. Y., was sentenced to 90 days in county jail, 60 of which were suspended, and was assessed $7 in costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Tuesday.

Rose pleaded guilty to charges of "joy riding." He was charged with taking a car owned by Linda Kay Starnitt on Aug. 25.

GREETING HOSTS—Two of the many Colorado Springs residents hosting Air Force Academy cadets during "Friendship 65" were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnham, 21 Marland Rd. Like other members of the Class of 1965, cadets Robert B. Giffen, Joseph M. Henderson, Robert Y. Forester, and Don R. Hanson were met at Memorial Park by their hosts. Generous local residents made sure the entire 680-man class had invitations to spend an evening "at home." He noted that few of the Indians could speak Spanish. "There would be one or two in each tribe who could speak Spanish and then only in a limited way," he said. "Their Spanish was about as advanced as that of the average American tourist."

He said that becoming a Christian is a dangerous business in most primitive tribes.

"Those who become Christians frequently are killed or run out of the tribe," the Colorado College student explained.

Wilkinson said he and his family probably will spend the next 12 years in the remote areas of British Columbia translating the New Testament.

Morris and Kenny Morris, all of Henderson.

Primping Should Be Done in Private Places

The teen-ager who constantly primps in public only succeeds in embarrassing her escort. He expects her to look pretty. He thinks she is pretty, or he probably wouldn't have asked her out in the first place. But he doesn't enjoy seeing her whip out a mirror, run a comb through her hair every half hour, or frequently apply lipstick.

If you put on your make-up carefully to begin with, it should last for most of the evening. But if you feel you must smooth out your hair or take the shine off your nose, go to the powder room to do it. Don't dawdle there forever, do a complete new make-up job. You owe it to your date to spend your time with him. Let HIM admire you. Save your own admiration for when you're in front of your mirror at home. Constant attention to your looks when you're out with a male friend only leaves the impression that you're far more interested in yourself than you are in him. It's a rude attitude and can throw a monkey wrench into any romance.

Photographs Point Up Figure Faults

When you look at your beach photographs, don't mean that the camera has added pounds to your appearance. You're probably not as heavy as you look in the candid photos, but you may be more overweight than you'd realized. Even the camera won't make a sylph look like a baby elephant. If you appear somewhat heavier in your snapshots than you do in your mirror, perhaps your posture was careless. Slouching, when standing or sitting, can add inches to your waistline and give your shoulders a rounded thickness.

The candid shots also may tell you that you made a wrong choice when you bought your swimsuit and that vertical stripes or a deeper solid color would have been a better selection. These pictures can be a wonderful reference source for self-improvement. So don't shriek out that you can't possibly look that bad! Just take steps to insure better results at the next picture-taking session.

Do Make All-Purpose Dress

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A dress to wear to business, for teaching, for PTA meetings, for informal luncheons is always a valued dress. Every wardrobe needs a lightweight wool dress of crepe or imitation linen that is easy to take care of, to get into and which is all-around becoming.

Pockets such as are shown help to make the waistline look smaller. These are very easy to make, as you see, coming into the side seam as they do.

Buttons are so beautiful that you can without doubt find some to enhance your dress and to delight you as long as the dress lasts.

This dress can be completely finished in front and have a center back zipper. In that case, sew the buttons on for decoration and omit buttonholes.

Because sheer wool is recommended for this dress, I'll give you a few essentials of handling wool. These, I believe, will help you no matter what type of dress, suit, or coat you are making.

Stretching Fabric
Lay the fabric on your cutting table, the straightened crosswise end even with the end of the table, and the selvedge along the edge. You will see at once if it is necessary to stretch the fabric diagonally to make it straight through-out its length.

As a rule, silk is not dampened, the steaming is as when rolled and, consequently, is important as the pressing. Lift the cloth occasionally to allow the wool or linen or cotton or rayon steam to escape. A good steam is crooked, stretching diagonally, iron saves time of using a damp cloth.

You press fabrics when making them into garments — you do not iron them as you do a tablecloth. If stretching does not straighten the fabric, dampen it and lay it over the fabric, and press.

Stretch it enough so that you can glide the iron lightly over cotton, silk, and rayons. Dampen the cloth more generously for linen and woolens, and press.

After straightening one end of a fabric, wet a muslin cloth and harder. NEVER iron in the sense lay the fabric over this until it of bearing down and out.

Have absorbed enough moisture to allow you to straighten the fabric easily and perfectly.

This applies only to wool, cotton, or linen. If wool, wind on a board of cotton or linen, shake out and hang over a door, or stretch out the column.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who cannot pass a mirror without looking at himself. I say it is a sign of conceit. He says it isn't. He claims he just likes to be sure he looks okay. He is the only boy I know who actually carries a "Mirror." I would like your opinion of a boy who has to look at himself all the time. — A NAME-LESS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Either your friend has no confidence in the way he looks or he is just plain delighted with his own reflection. Most people who appear to be "conceited" are in reality self-conscious souls who feel inferior and inadequate.

Perhaps the reason so many children grow up to regard Fathers as only the money-maker is because Father has fulfilled that function and none other. Raising children should be a joint effort. ## Do Make All-Purpose Dress

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A dress to wear to business, for teaching, for PTA meetings, for informal luncheons is always a valued dress. Every wardrobe needs a lightweight wool dress of crepe or imitation linen that is easy to take care of, to get into and which is all-around becoming.

Pockets such as are shown help to make the waistline look smaller. These are very easy to make, as you see, coming into the side seam as they do.

Buttons are so beautiful that you can without doubt find some to enhance your dress and to delight you as long as the dress lasts.

This dress can be completely finished in front and have a center back zipper. In that case, sew the buttons on for decoration and omit buttonholes.

Because sheer wool is recommended for this dress, I'll give you a few essentials of handling wool. These, I believe, will help you no matter what type of dress, suit, or coat you are making.

Stretching Fabric
Lay the fabric on your cutting table, the straightened crosswise end even with the end of the table, and the selvedge along the edge. You will see at once if it is necessary to stretch the fabric diagonally to make it straight through-out its length.

As a rule, silk is not dampened, the steaming is as when rolled and, consequently, is important as the pressing. Lift the cloth occasionally to allow the wool or linen or cotton or rayon steam to escape. A good steam is crooked, stretching diagonally, iron saves time of using a damp cloth.

You press fabrics when making them into garments — you do not iron them as you do a tablecloth. If stretching does not straighten the fabric, dampen it and lay it over the fabric, and press.

Stretch it enough so that you can glide the iron lightly over cotton, silk, and rayons. Dampen the cloth more generously for linen and woolens, and press.

After straightening one end of a fabric, wet a muslin cloth and harder. NEVER iron in the sense lay the fabric over this until it of bearing down and out.

Have absorbed enough moisture to allow you to straighten the fabric easily and perfectly.

This applies only to wool, cotton, or linen. If wool, wind on a board of cotton or linen, shake out and hang over a door, or stretch out the column.

Hearty Meat Sandwich Ideas Are Suggested

Sandwiches step into the limelight this month, for August is Sandwich Month. Sandwiches are always important during the summer, whether they go on picnics to the beach or stay at home for easy meals.

A good sandwich should be tasty and moist. Using several slices of meat instead of a single thick slice results in a better tasting sandwich. Of course, without the meat and put it up no one likes repetition of the for use all winter long. A food same sandwich, so learn to prepare various kinds.

Two Ideas Offered
Perhaps a few suggestions will start you thinking. Here are two hearty and hot main-dish sandwiches filled with appetite-satisfying meat. They are offered by meat cookery authority Reba Staggs.

The first utilizes the all-time favorite ham and baked beans. For 6 sandwiches, combine 2 cups diced cooked ham, 1/4 cup diced celery, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 can (9 ounces) baked beans, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 cup catchup and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Big red tomatoes from your own garden or your local market are eating news today. Can them whole, or make fresh tomato juice of them. Of course, sliced and sprinkled with chopped chives or parsley they are a wonderful salad. For the spaghetti dinner fans, they might be used in a super spaghetti sauce.

This South Seas Delight Sandwich makes a nice party treat. Mash or grind 1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat. Combine with 1/4 cup peeled and chopped cucumber, 2 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 2 tablespoons catchup. Spread between 6 frankfurter buns and wrap each in aluminum foil. Bake 10 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.).

Fresh Spaghetti Sauce (Serves 6)

4 tablespoons vegetable oil
6 small to medium size onions, chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 celery stalks, chopped
2 green peppers, chopped
3 pounds firm ripe tomatoes, quartered and cored
1/4 teaspoon each dried basil, thyme, oregano, marjoram
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 pound ground chuck
Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in a large saucepan or kettle. Add onion, garlic, celery and pepper; cook until vegetables are soft. Add tomatoes and seasonings. Cook slowly about one hour. Strain mixture by putting it through a food mill. Brown ground chuck in remaining 2 tablespoons oil. Add strained tomato sauce and cook to desired thickness. Taste and season, if desired, with additional salt and pepper. Serve over cooked spaghetti.

BIG FRESH red tomatoes, onions and celery are combined to make a delicious sauce for spaghetti dinner fans.

Pick Frozen Foods Carefully

Two Pork Cuts Are Paired in Party Entree

Part of your hospitality when friends are invited to dinner is to offer food served in some special way. You pay a compliment to your guests and pleasing them boosts your pride.

Sometimes an unusual combination of foods will do the trick and result in a dish that may become your specialty. Such a team is this Party Pork Pair featuring pork tenderloin patties and slices of Canadian-style bacon. The idea is offered by Reba Staggs, authority on meat cookery.

The meat slices are stacked with a bright tomato slice on top. Bread crumbs and a sprig of parsley add the finishing touch. You'll find this company entree as pretty as a picture and just as pleasing to taste.

6 pork tenderloin patties (approximately 1 pound)
6 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut 1/4 inch thick
1/4 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 slices tomato, cut 1/4 inch thick
3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
Parsley, if desired
Combine milk, egg and salt. Dip tenderloin patties in egg mixture and then in 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Brown slowly in lard or drippings. Place patties on a rack in an open roasting pan. Place slice of Canadian-style bacon on top of each patty. Place a tomato slice on top of each slice of Canadian-style bacon. Mix bread crumbs and butter or margarine and sprinkle on tomato slices. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 to 45 minutes or until done. Garnish with parsley, if desired. 6 servings.

Family Dinner
Chances are your family will enjoy this different vegetable combination, and it's quickly prepared.

Beef Patties with Bacon Strips
Potatoes
Panned Cabbage and Carrots
Sliced Tomatoes, Bread Tray
Blueberry Pudding Beverage
Panned Cabbage and Carrots
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced carrots
1/2 cup water
1 quart coarse knife - shredded green cabbage
2 scallions (green onions), thinly sliced with tops included
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
In a 10-inch covered skillet, boil the carrots in the water until almost tender; there should be several tablespoons of water left, if not add that amount to skillet. Add the cabbage, scallions, butter, salt and pepper; mix well and cook gently, covered, until cabbage is wilted and as tender as you like. Makes 4 servings.

It is rather difficult to cite any moral in today's hand. As for West's action in doubling the final game contract of five diamonds I for one am not inclined to cite him for intemperance. His material certainly seemed like the kind of stuff that annuities are made of, and the ease with which declarer brought in his 11 tricks is just another of life's little ironies.

North's raise of diamonds with only two trumps was an aggressive step. Inasmuch as the bidding strongly suggested a misfit, North might have been somewhat more discreet to have permitted his partner to play for a part score in diamonds. But its hardly in good grace for me to argue with success.

In order to cut down dummy's ruffing potential, West led a low trump. No great risk was involved for, since South appeared most likely to have the diamond king, West was reasonably certain of maintaining his trump tricks intact. The dummy's seven of diamonds held the first trick and a low club was ruffed in the closed hand as West's queen fell. A small spade was trumped in dummy, and the ace of clubs was cashed dropping the king as declarer shed a spade.

The established jack of clubs was played next and South threw another spade. West ruffed with the queen of diamonds and shifted to the king of spades, but the end was now near. Declarer won the trick with the ace and reentered dummy with a heart in order to discard his remaining two spades, one on a high heart and the other on the ten of clubs. West trumped in on the club with the ace of but declarer was able to claim the rest with high trumps.

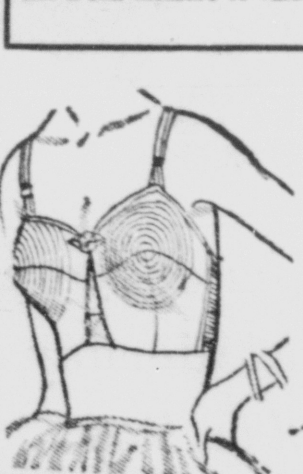

It may appear, at first glance, that the opening lead of ace and another trump would have sunk the contract. However, if declarer continues leading diamonds from his hand for a few more rounds, West will find himself caught in the grasp of a fatal squeeze and will be forced to surrender his protection in one of the side suits.

Get Out Your Gun

There is talk now of a new school bond issue in Colorado Springs. The total sum to be placed at the door of the voters is supposed to be something between $11 and $12 million.

Of course, since a bond issue is involved, this means that interest will be paid for the life of the bonds (if approved) and therefore the total cost will be considerably higher than even the $12 million figure.

We are going to hear a lot about how important this issue is and how many good things are going to come out of it if only the voters will, regardless of their own personal affairs, agree to the bond issue. So we're not going to talk about what the bonds might or might not buy.

That is academic, anyway. What concerns us is the principle. And the interest, of course.

Let's begin with that fine, round sum of $12,000,000. Even if the bond issue is cut a bit below this figure, the interest will run it up over the figure, so it's a valid one to work with.

$12,000,000 to be provided by the voters of Colorado Springs (even if ALL voters paid, not just those in the school district) would come to $150 per person. This includes babies in arms if we accept the generally agreed upon population figure for this city as being 80,000 more or less.

$150 per person comes to $600 for a family having two children.

Of course, it won't have to be paid all at once. It will be taken from your tax bill annually until the full issue is retired. And already the largest hunk of taxes paid on real estate in this area goes to the support of the government schools.

But never mind the amount at the moment. We just want to have in mind what the total cost will be per person. It will actually run a little bit above $600 per family of four.

Now let us assume that you are in favor of the kind of improvements in the schools that are being touted as arriving as a result of your approval of the issue. Fair enough. You have a right to want schools to be better and more costly, if that is what you want.

Not Highest Good

A world which believes that the highest good is altruism, must always be a world which is dependent upon those few capable of performing altruistic chores. This would be a world of superiors and inferiors and is contrary to the nature of things as they are.

Educational Tourism

We have been reflecting on the shallowness, the paucity of the courses of study offered in virtually every school in these United States from high school through college. And in considering this sad situation, an apt parallel has suggested itself.

The story is told of a couple who arrived at Lake Louise in Canada with their car plastered with stickers attesting to the various spots they had visited. The driver pulled in and parked with a flourish, and he and his travel-worn wife emerged.

A passerby smiled at them encouragingly and the husband lit up a cigar and exclaimed: "We're making the grand tour this year, yes, sir. We've seen 'em all."

"The World's Fair, Seattle, then Vancouver, tomorrow, Lake Louise and Banff."

The passerby interrupted. "But, my friend, this is Lake Louise."

"Quick, mother," called the driver. "This is Lake Louise. Get a picture and we can still get to Banff today."

A camera was produced. The shutter clicked. The couple piled into the car and roared away toward the east.

This same helter-skelter method of "seeing" America is followed by thousands of tourists each year. They take no more time with each natural marvel than it takes to focus their Argus. Then they are off for new wonders.

Altho this may be slightly amusing when considered in the light of tourism, a similar approach to education is a tragedy in itself. But consider your own experience in school and see if the analogy is really far-fetched.

You enter a class; a text book is produced; lectures are conducted; discussion ensues; papers are prepared. Do you actually finish the text - book? Do you have an opportunity to really discuss the important aspects of the subject? Can you find the time to do supporting reading, to ask questions,

These Days Politicians Must Fib

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Politicians are forced by the circumstances of their trade to live from day to day. It is the philosopher and the historian who risk forecasting the events and who often take a stand which opposes the current fashions. Statesmen sometimes gamble on principles, but the politician must deal with what is before him.

Sometimes history and even public opinion reverse themselves, usually after the politician is dead and what seemed to be so very wrong when it was done, may, in later years, prove to have been right. To this, Herbert Hoover is an exception, for he has lived long enough for public opinion to have reversed itself and he who was regarded as a failure as President is now one of the most beloved men. On August 10, he had a birthday party in West Branch, Iowa, where he was born and many came from near and far to do him honor.

A figure such as Hitler will be judged by history a century or more from now very differently from today. However, this much is certain: he was a politician in all of history, led freely when he needed to and men accepted his lies. So astute a student of the political currents in 1933 as Walter Lippmann said of a speech that Hitler delivered:

"The Chancellor stated that 'nevertheless no German government will of its own volition break an agreement that cannot be abrogated except by substituting a better one. However, this acknowledgement of the legal character of such a treaty can only be a general one. Not only the victor has claims to the rights granted therein but also the vanquished. The right to demand revision of this treaty, however, is founded on the treaty itself. As the motif and measure of its demand, Germany desires nothing but the experiences thus far attained, and the undeniable findings of logical, critical reason. Unless I am greatly mistaken, this is the most definite pledge that has yet been given by any German government that it would pursue its claim for revision within the framework of the Covenant of the League of Nations.'"

I do not quote this to point to a failing of Walter Lippmann as a prophet. I admire him too much for that. Rather, I cite this as an example of how dangerous it is even for the brightest of men to trust to the words of politicians who always say what they need to say at the moment and change their minds when they need to change their minds.

I make this point as there is a tendency among our people to assume that because a man is in public life, he will lead rather than bend to the common will. As a matter of fact, the theory behind the vote is that the chosen person should represent those who choose him. We are about to choose candidates for the 1962 Election - Governors, U. S. Senators, members of Congress. What do we expect of them? When they run for office, they will promise to serve their constituencies and each constituent will assume that he is the one who must be served. This is, of course, nonsense. No man could possibly serve so many masters.

COMPROMISE
Representative government is then not an acceptance of leadership but rather a matter of compromise. In fact, our government is so organized on a system of checks and balances among the Executive, the Senate and the House of Representatives that compromise is a built-in method. Without such a process we would be standing absolutely still at all times. If the people then assume that because a politician says so - and so in a campaign, he is to be trusted to hold to that position forever, they are bound to be disappointed, for so adamant and obdurate a person would fail utterly to accomplish anything under our system.

As the 1962 campaign really commences, therefore, we need to worry less about what men say and more about their character and what they have done in the past and their political associations.

We dare not assume that any politician can live up to his promises, but we can be sure that a man of character and decency will not betray his country. It is so easy, in politics, really to do nothing but to say much.

to the other side of the book, not to find out what is in it. The object seems to be to get the lecturing and the discussion behind you so you can at least say you've been there.

Is this the way to LEARN? Is this the way to develop the latent genius in our young people? It is no wonder that many of our most successful people are those who do not spend too much time in formal governmental schooling. The individual who wants to learn, can readily do so.

The individual who wants a diploma or a sheep-skin merely needs the photographic record of his tour thru subject matter.

The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by The Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

With the November elections not too far distant, certain folks are running scared. The shock troops are invading our state of Colorado, which it will be recalled went Republican at the last election by over 63,000 votes, and present predictions are that this majority will probably run well over one hundred thousand in November. This puts Johnny Carroll and Spending Steve McNichols in grave danger and hence the invasion by shock troops running scared.

The Commander in chief heads these legions and he is supported on the flanks by a bevy of secretaries, assistants, bureaucrats and hangers-on. So the pressure is on, folks, and don't forget it.

The first plan was for the first man to go to Pueblo and sign the Frying Pan-Arkansas bill, the purpose of which of course was to take public credit for its passage. But a local commentator hit the nail on the head when he remarked that the President might look a bit foolish in the photographs with Judge Chenoweth and Peter Dominick looking over his shoulder with wide grins on their faces. So the formal signing will be done at the White House. Judge Chenoweth has kept everlastingly at this job for twelve years and the major credit should be his, altho the entire Colorado congressional delegation worked in excellent cooperation.

So, the President, the Salingers, Udaals, Freemans, with their retinues of under secretaries and underlings compose the invading phalanx. And now comes the word that Bobby and his wife are making an appearance over on the western slope and no doubt Bobby thinks he can cope with the slope all by himself. Mrs. Kennedy should be warned not to fall into the Roaring Fork river because that is a turbulent stream, and while falling into it might be good publicity from a political standpoint, it would be positively more dangerous than toppling into a swimming pool.

I am inclined to think that they will leave Eddie, or Teddy, or whatever his name is, out of the invading mob. The photo in my magazine of some time ago, picturing Eddie diving, fully clothed, backwards into a swimming pool, is still imprinted indelibly on the public mind. If Eddie by chance should be carrying a cargo of Virgin Island propulsive liquid, he might by chance take a notion to be under another leader.

To The Point
British Conservatives

The Mr. Harold Macmillan's government recently won a vote of confidence by a majority of almost a hundred in the House of Commons, probably Mr. Macmillan's prime minister.

Indeed, it has been the British equivalent of the Eisenhower administration. And from similar causes, as the popularity of Eisenhower policies diminished in the later years of that administration, so the Macmillan cabinet is losing its influence in the country.

The principal deficiencies of the Macmillan government have been a certain lack of imagination and a certain timidity - the characteristics of what has been called the conservatism of complacency, of the shop-and-till party.

Certainly Mr. Macmillan's speeches and measures have had no touch of the fancy and boldness which Disraeli gave to the Conservative party.

In foreign affairs as in domestic, Mr. Macmillan has trusted to "muddling thru" and to compromise. Recently Lord Salisbury, speaking in the House of Lords, remarked with some contempt that the government's stand in such matters as the Congo crisis has been cautious to a fault.

And Lord Avon - Sir Anthony Eden before his peerage - has been most severe upon the re-shuffling of the cabinet by his successor as prime minister. Many of the Conservative backbenchers are thoroughly vexed at the dismissal of Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, whose anti-inflationary program at the Exchequer has gone down Mr. Macmillan's drain.

Mr. Macmillan calls for younger blood and more color in the Conservative party, but it seems probable that the party will seek a younger and more lively leader. Under the label of "pragmatic conservatism," Mr. Macmillan to dive fully clothed into Cherry Creek, where he would find himself buried to the neck in quicksand. There may be some quicksand in the political waters back in Massachusetts, but only November will tell. But if Eddie did show up in this neck of the woods he might be asked just what qualifications a senator from a great state should have - and that would be embarrassing.

Whether the invading political mob will help or hinder Johnny Carroll is a question. John has already hindered himself beyond remedy. John, with his fine personality, has had all the opportunity of becoming a leader in thoroughgoing Americanism. Instead he has chosen to be a slavish follower down the encroaching socialist path. That may be good politics from his standpoint, but it is hardly fair to his constituents who are utterly weary of over-taxation, waste and extravagance in all phases of government, and cradle to the grave paternalism. John has walked the straight narrow path of Kennedyism without variance. When he is defeated, for the senate he no doubt will be rewarded with a handsome and extravagantly paid administrative position with the Peace Corps or to the next year type of politician.

The twenty percent income tax that Steve might be expected to bring a fat appointment for Steve in the event of his coming defeat. Steve belongs to the next year type of politician. The twenty percent income tax that Steve might be expected to bring a fat appointment for Steve in the event of his coming defeat. Steve belongs to the next year type of politician.

Recent repeated visits to Washington may bring a fat appointment for Steve in the event of his coming defeat. Steve belongs to the next year type of politician. The twenty percent income tax that Steve might be expected to bring a fat appointment for Steve in the event of his coming defeat. Steve belongs to the next year type of politician.

The invading big administrative brass have come and gone and on they go to California and elsewhere on their professed non-political tour, which of course will end up with a good visit to Massachusetts this Autumn. Yes, folks, they are running scared, and rightfully so.

AID TO UNDERDEVELOPED

To the Editor:
I wish to commend Mr. Harris for his defense of the foreign assistance program. It impels me to take care of a matter I have long neglected.

There is a similar situation in our town wherein a man is being maligned much to the distress of many public-spirited people. He lives in Corruptville, U.S.A., where one Nikko Extorto is being criticized not only by various people in the community but editorially in the press as well. Nikko is the boss man of the local mob. I want you to know that there is no trouble in our town. We get protection. Nikko sees to that. But some people expect him to operate without funds. There are kooks in the town who would have all of the good things this man does cease overnight. Nikko sponsors the local baseball team. He bought uniforms for the Little League, sent out 400 baskets of food at Christmas time and distributed a thousand packages of food just before the spring elections.

His "Big Fist" Jones in as police chief. Now, there is a man. You can't get a parking ticket past that man and if you want to entertain an out-of-town business associate you can do it without having some jerk cop busting into the bedroom.

Nikko has more than $200,000 on loan to the local businessmen that need a little help to get on their feet, and through the union pension fund this man does no end of good in helping the poor people in the underdeveloped end of town.

It would be bad enough if only some of the so-called thinking people of this town were criticizing Nikko. But the very people who are helping get no respect for this fine man. The ungrateful slobs didn't kick when he was getting his funds exclusively from the hardworking greedy squares downtown. They liked what he was doing so he decided to expand his operation. Now that takes dough and when Nikko charged a small fee for the services he performs in our end of town the very people he is helping have begun to squawk.

Now, I say the measure of a man is what he does with his money and not how he got it. Between the relief payments and the help Nikko is giving them, there are a thousand men in this town who are not out there competing for the jobs available. This increases the wages of the working squares and makes it possible for them to kick into Nikko to support his programs.

Some character claims that Nikko "extracts" a million a year out of this town that could otherwise be used right here. Well, I want you to know that they forgot income he gets from the untaxed liquor he sells. He pumps at least a million and a half a year back into the economy in our town and we ain't had no robbery or burglary or assault in Corruptville in three years. "Course, any clown that gets out of line we take care of him, but fast.

Now, Nikko's fundamental purpose is to promote the interest of this here town. This effort merits the support of all Corruptvilleites.

has yielded to popular appetites for more inflation - which will not endear him to the influential men in his party, nor in the long run to the country at large.

This does not mean that the Labor party necessarily, or even probably, will win the next general election; nor that the Liberals will regain many seats in the House of Commons. For the Socialists still are badly disunited and have no appealing program, while the Liberals continue to mutter vaguely about being a halfway house and about admiring the ideas of George Orwell. But it probably does mean, to judge from my British wanderings and conversations, Conservative reorganization and a very close election.

The principal deficiencies of the Macmillan government have been a certain lack of imagination and a certain timidity - the characteristics of what has been called the conservatism of complacency, of the shop-and-till party.

Paul Harvey News Let's Welcome Khrushchev

By PAUL HARVEY

Khrushchev is headed for New York for the opening of the UN General Assembly in September.

Adlai Stevenson says, "Here comes another three-ring circus."

Khrushchev, one shoe on and one shoe off, will hurl epithets, make threats. Conducting himself in his customary vulgar manner he will likely manage again to convey a distorted image of himself to the partially enlightened of the world. Nations in semi-darkness will see him as "a lone man standing against the world in defense of human rights."

Khrushchev's importance will be exaggerated beyond comprehension in the international press. We may see him for what he is - a rude, crude professional troublemaker.

But the world's hinterlands will picture him as the "last, great hope of hungry, oppressed mankind."

I suggest a warm reception for Khrushchev. Very warm. I suggest, in fact, that we prepare a hot reception for this retired Bolshevik.

Retired Army Col. Roy F. Lynd thinks we're missing a bet in failing consistently and persistently to ridicule the Reds.

WEAPON
The unenlightened, now awed by Khrushchev, could be made to laugh at him if the truth were paraded properly. Colonel Lynd says, "Words are the weapons with which we wage war for the it."

Khrushchev will mount some heavy artillery in the world war in New York this fall. Let's match to keep his people in!

Let's remind the world how silly that sounds from a nation which needs barbed wire and walls of stone and armed guards to keep its people in!

Viewed by Sensing Socialism in Space

By THURMAN SENSING

The United States is the land of free enterprise. But you would not recognize it as such from the lands where there is no hope of profit, but private investment of dollars in great national enterprises forbidden?

Senator Maurice Neuberger (D-Ore.) went so far as to say that "there is no doubt" that big business retards research so as to profit from obsolete inventions.

This liberal filibuster proved obstructive in that it revealed more about the intellectual dimensions of the senators who dub themselves liberals. The anti-capitalist mentality was exposed in Senate speeches.

This evident distaste for free enterprise and enthusiasm for technology is hard to understand. America leads in scientific developments and in industry. This leadership is the result of research, planning and production in hundreds of private companies. Private enterprise is the goose that lays golden eggs for America. Why should intelligent persons want to destroy it or limit its activity? Socialism, on the other hand, is a synonym for a second-class method of industrial control and development. It is another word for bureaucratic inefficiency combined with totalitarian regimentation.

Whatever the psychological reasons for certain senators opposing the Telstar legislation, they do not excuse such opposition. Foes of private enterprise involvement in space communications program in effect are foes of progressive utilization of the country's brainpower and know-how.

As a side note it is interesting to observe that to some members of Congress a filibuster is neither right nor wrong - it just all depends upon which side of the question you are on. For instance, Senator Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who has been masterminding this liberal talkathon against the space satellite bill, remarked on May 6, 1946 (during a civil rights controversy): "The fundamental trick of the obstructionist is the filibuster which the public must learn is not funny, but a disgraceful and contemptible provocation." Thus does a man get thinking of those foreign peoples hoisted on his own petard!

Senator Ralph Yarborough (D-Texas) compared the proposed corporation with the British East India Company and the Dutch East India Company.

Senate Russell Long (D-La.) referred to the strictly American-type arrangement as a "monopolistic consortium."

Senate Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) spoke in the debate of the American profit system as having "ugly and unattractive commercial aspects." He professed to be concerned about what foreigners would say. "If we enact this bill," he declared, "the U.S. participation in international communications will be branded by many people in the world as an act of thinking of those foreign peoples hoisted on his own petard!"

Anti-Virus Drug Seen as Aid To Fight Colds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A drug to combat colds, a question about high protein diets, and a study of mental stress and tooth decay figure in the medical news.

An anti-virus drug, nicknamed ABOR, often can prevent or suppress respiratory infections of the common cold type, a Swedish physician reports.

In tests in an industrial plant, ABOR was credited with reducing absenteeism from colds by 30 per cent, when workers took the drug at the first sign of symptoms. In another experiment when it was taken as a preventive, the incidence of colds was reduced by 30 to 40 per cent, says Dr. John Haglund of Koping, Sweden.

Earlier studies had found the Swedish-developed drug effective in protecting against influenza, he says.

High Protein Diets

A medical research team takes issue with the idea that a high protein diet allows the body to store up reserves of protein, useful later on if diseases strike or you have to go hungry. Such diets are being recommended for that reason.

There is no scientific evidence, from rat experiments, that the body can bank proteins, report Drs. L. Emmett Holt Jr. and Elias Hulse Jr., of New York and Baltimore. The person recovering from illness often does need more protein. Short-term studies have not uncovered any harmful effects from eating more protein than the minimum actually needed, but that doesn't rule out the possibility there could be long-term effects, they say.

Worry and Teeth

Mental stress and strain somehow may make teeth more susceptible to decay, at least in some adults, says an Australian dentist.

Dr. Philip R. N. Sutton of Melbourne checked records of hundreds of people and found that an outbreak of tooth decay frequently followed times of great mental worry or stress. But he says the findings thus far are only suggestive, not conclusive.

CHAIN REACTION

VEDDASCA Italy (UPI)—Hunter Ernesto Bonalumi pulled his dog on the head Sunday and started a chain reaction that sent him to the hospital.

The dog wagged its tail. The tail hit the gun Bonalumi had rested against a tree. The gun fell to the ground and went off.

Doctors said Bonalumi probably would need 10 days to recover from the bullet wounds.

At the annual meeting of the Snodgrass celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary August 12 in Wichita, Kans., on Sunday July 29 at the home of their son Richard Snodgrass and family. Attending the celebration were their 16 immediate children and grandchildren; the Robert Snodgrass also of Wichita; Ray E. Snodgrass Jr., and a daughter Mrs. Kenneth Batesel both of Los Angeles.

To serve three years as directors were John Hols, Dr. Clifford Jones and Jim McFarland. To serve two years, Harlan Pote, Will Speed and Sidney Thompson. To serve one year, John LeBosquet, Evert E. Sharpe, M. H. Tucker.

Ex-Officio FC members on the board are Arthur Church, Wilson Reedy, Larry Roberts, Howard Wilson and Evert Sharpe. Supplemental list includes Fritz Larson, Ward Keller, Whit Lee, T. O. Hugh, Guy Sheets, Jack Roslan, Harold Wilson, W. E. Moore.

The "Utes" baseball team completed its second year season August 23 playing its final game against the Red team from Black Forest Athletic Association. The team was organized two summers ago with 11-12 year old boys, in the Old Timers Association. The same group of boys moved into the older league of 13-14 and were provided uniforms by the Allservice Life Insurance Company as well as other equipment thru the courtesy of its president J. S. Davis Jr. of Green Mountain Falls.

Acknowledgement is given the Chipita Park Company for the use of the ground for the diamond, which was graded and prepared by Bill Rasher, custodian of the park. The bases and back stop were purchased by the Green Mountain Falls — Chipita Park Volunteer Fire Department. "Dads" donated labor and the Women's Fellowship, Church "Mothers" provided the transportation for the 15 games played this summer under the supervision of Conrad Pyle, pastor of the Church in the Wildwood.

Utes scored three winning games and had lots of experience for the next season. The boys came from all over the country including Tom Haggard, Ken and Kirk Clayton of Texas, Mark and Ted Schroll, Larry Smoot, Pat DeShave, Crib Altman of Kansas, John Kauffman, Missouri; C. E. Arnold, Colorado Springs; from Chipita Park, came Steve Corbett, Glenn Gough, Jackie Jones, Keith and Paul Tanner, Layne Van Arsdale, Steve Hendricks and Steve Singmaster. Cascadians were Steve Berend and Tom Hogan while others from Green Mountain Falls were David Holway, Sammy Davis, Michael Higgins, Jack and Denny Bartley.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1962 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: We do not want our children to begin Sunday school and church too soon. In your opinion, when should we begin sending them? —R. E.

ANSWER: It isn't possible to begin too soon. The tragedy in most homes is that they begin too late. Even though there is much that children may not be able to understand, they will receive a foundation upon which to build in later life.

But you speak of sending them. Does that mean that you yourself have no time for instruction in the things of God? You will teach your children more by your example than any Sunday school teacher can in the few minutes she may have them in a class.

You need the spiritual help you can receive through the Word of God also, and I would suggest that you begin right now to take them with you to church.

QUESTION: I feel that I do not get the help and pleasure I should from my Bible study. Can you give me any suggestions? —G. P.

ANSWER: Bible study can and should be fascinating for every Christian and the time you spend reading it each day should be something to which you look forward with eagerness. There are many ways to make the book come alive. First of all, before you start reading, ask God's Holy Spirit to direct your thinking and open your understanding, for it is He who is speaking through its pages. Then, decide on a systematic method of study and follow that system. This may be studying one book at a time. If you choose this, then read that particular book over and over again. Each time you read it, make notes on interesting thoughts. The next time you will find something new and interesting, and every time you read it, or you may take some subject or doctrine and follow it by references all through the Bible—doctrines such as the Holy Spirit, the atonement, salvation, justification, redemption, the church, etc. Another fascinating way to study the Bible is to get two or three different translations and read a passage in each of them. This will often open up new meanings. Remember, the Bible is God's book. His revelation to man, and when we go to it with an open heart and an open mind we will find blessings untold.

QUESTION: Is a person really saved if he accepts the Lord in fear in going to Hell? —V. M.

ANSWER: Let me answer your question by asking you these: If a person leaves a burning building for fear of losing his life will he be saved? If a person undergoes surgery for fear of a burst appendix will his chance of living be any less? If a man is cautious in crossing the street for fear of being run over, is that wrong? I ask you these questions to underscore the fact that fear is a normal part of life. It is tragic that too few people fear to break God's commandments, fear the judgment, and fear Hell. We drink it up, live it up, and go our own selfish ways, with no fear of retribution or an accounting of our sins.

The word "fear" as used in the Bible could well be interpreted "respect." A man runs from fire because he respects it. A man is cautious in crossing the street because he respects the killing power of a modern automobile. A man fears disease because he knows it can be fatal.

On the other hand, fear heats our homes, and cars are a blessing. It is the misuse of them that brings tragedy.

I hope the day will never come when we will lose our respect for God, His laws, and His judgments. For when we do, the wild horses of passion will run within us unchecked and unbridled.

TV Biographies Are Misleading, Writer Claims

by CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The curtain will soon rise on a new television season. New programs will impress (or depress) the viewers. New stars will twinkle on the new screens.

As part of the television manufacturing process, there is the advance build-up for a legion of unknowns, those new and usually handsome faces tapped for television stardom months and months before the public has a chance to look and react.

The star-making process includes mimeographed documents, somewhat misleadingly called "biographies."

These are turned out on a wholesale basis by anonymous specialists skilled in producing such a bio as follows: "Harry Bellamy was a teamster at 10, chewed tobacco at 10, was a coal miner, Greene, who stands 6 feet, 5 inches and weighs 205 pounds, says, 'I can't act small.'"

But the biography of Richard Burton, voice of Winston Churchill, was bound to succeed. The scrappy 19-year-old arrived in New York a few years ago only once to discover the big city really did not care.

Both are quoted from the official biographies of Greene, soon-to-be introduced as a new lead Brooklynite in the old "Cheyenne" and Andrew Prine, second lead in the new "Wide Country."

A proper television biography should start with a year of high-school month. This will double the number of information. The in- and speaking fluently seven lang-

Newspaper boys and adolescent ment of coolies supplement their canned goods—pilfered by trusted the sly. An average Government coolies regularly earn a fast ru- meagre income by getting cuts cooks and houseboys — make a clerk's salary is $35 per month. ing anything from the procure- the man who operates under- such coolies a fair-size cut in prof- its from the clandestine sales.

These teen-age wheeled and dealers often eat meat and eggs, rarities even on the dining tables of the better than average middle-class families.

"The price of respectability is too high," said one of the boys. Because of his dead-pan sense of humor, his aggressiveness and talent for spotting easy customers, this coolie has become the leader of his pack. He earns an average of $150 a month.

This youth has acquired a brick bungalow in Korangi Township where thousands like him live in the Refugee Resettlement Area on an income so low children remain unschooled and babies turn scrawny and scabrous, if they do not die of malnutrition.

Unlike his hapless neighbors, however, his family of one wife, one child, parents and a brother eat well and live well, comparatively. Their two-room, one courtyard and one bathroom doll house has been extended to take in another room and a rain-proof roof has given them shelter against the merciless monsoon showers.

How, he asked, could anyone deliberately turn his back on much-needed income for the sake of respectability when such an income made the difference between hunger and life?

Typical of the many coolies that prowl along Bohri Bazaar, teeming Empress Market and the labyrinthian slums off Bunder Road, he once had a taste of respectability as a house boy in a foreigner's house. He did not make enough to feed his family. Uneducated, and unable to obtain a white-collar job in a city where the unemployment ratio has kept the average clerk's salary at an impossible low-level, he took to his present profession.

Plying their underworld trade requires these boys to have more skill than brawn. A chief requirement is an ability to guess the nationality of a customer coupled with a more than average grasp of current world affairs.

To gain the confidence of a foreign customer they will strongly advocate democracy to an American . . . calling Khrushchev "a nut." To a Russian, socialism alone can level the social inequalities in Pakistan. Once they even pointed at Princess Michiko as Japan's most forthright approach at democracy.

As a rule, these boys glean their knowledge from the Urdu newspapers read communally by a literate member in their group or from gossip traded among their elders. Some stray into the Russian propaganda Centre, the Voks Library, in Elphinstone Street where they learn all about Russian socialism.

It is worth realizing that of the 25 boys interviewed, not one has been to the USIS Library. They claimed the American Library caters to the middle class, while the Russians are out to channel the interest of the illiterates who constitute about 85 per cent of the population of Pakistan.

Highway Use Tax Due Aug. 31

District Director of Internal Revenue, V. Lee Phillips, today reminded owners of registered motor vehicles who are required to be liable for the Highway Use Tax. Buses are taxable if unloaded weight of the bus plus 150 pounds exceeds 26,000 pounds. This applies primarily to owners of intercity buses. Local transit systems are exempt from the tax if they meet the "60 percent passenger fare revenue test."

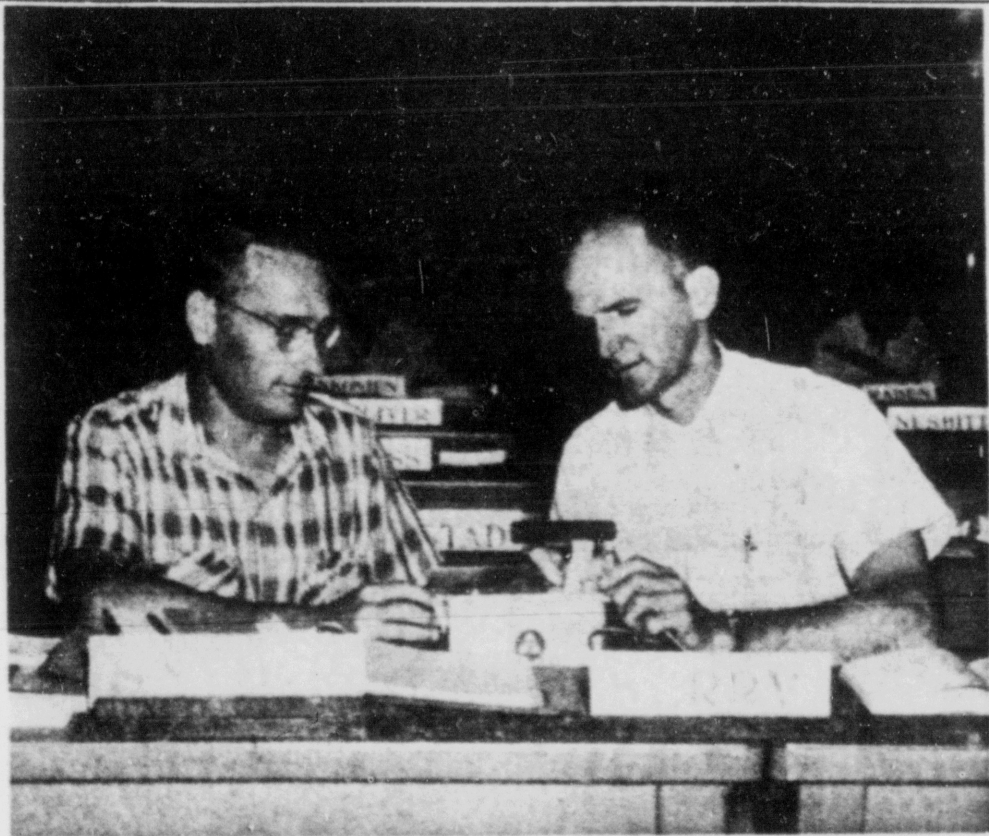

Form 2290 must be filed in August for all taxable vehicles in use at any time in July, which is the first month of the tax year. An additional Form 2290 must be filed for each later month of the tax year in which additional vehicles are put into use and the tax is prorated accordingly.

Still 3 1/2 Games Out . . .

Yanks Retain AL Margin Thanks to Mick's Homer

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A very timely home run by Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, a barrage of long-range cannonading by the Angels, another shut-out for left-hander Jim Kaat of the Twins — and the three-team tangle in the American League.

It's still New York by 3 1/2 games over Los Angeles and Minnesota.

Mantle connected for his 39th lifetime homer Tuesday night, carrying the Yankees over Cleveland 2-1, and the Mick's blast could hardly have been timed better. It came in the last of the fourth inning of the opener of a scheduled doubleheader with the Indians ahead 1-0. An inning later a rain that wouldn't let up came washing out the rest of the program.

Leon Wagner hit homers 31 and 32 and Bob Rodgers, Leo Thomas and Felix Torres rapped one each in the Angels' 10-5 victory over Kansas City. Kaat registered his fifth shutout of the season, clipping Chicago 2-0.

In the other AL game, left-hander Don Rudolph of Washington 2-0 behind Al Jackson's 2-0 stretch hit his second straight shutout to 30 with a six-hitter as the three-team battle for the National League's blue ribbon.

The Dodgers' continued their amazing winning habit in their new ballpark Tuesday night, leading off home runs by Tommie Davis and Duke Snider, blended with the eight-hit pitching of Johnny Podres, boosted the Dodgers lead over the Reds to 5 1/2 games and maintained their 2 1/2-game edge over runner-up San Francisco.

The Giants kept pace by riding Juan Marichal's six-hit pitching and home runs by Willie Mays and Harvey Kuenn to a 4-3 triumph over Milwaukee.

Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 7-6 on Bill Mazeroski's eighth inning homer, Houston defeated St. Louis 4-2 and New York and Philadelphia split The Mets won 2-0 behind Al Jackson's three-hitter before the Phillies took the nightcap 10-1 on Dennis Bergetti's six-hit pitching.

The Reds got to Podres (11-10) for their run in the second inning on singles by Vada Pinson, Leo Cardenas and Gordy Coleman. In the bottom half, the Dodgers moved ahead to stay on run-producing singles by Podres and Mays. Wills off Reds' starter Bob Parkey (20-5). The homers by Davis and Snider in the third and fourth, respectively, made it 4-1 and the Dodgers were on their way to victory No. 43 in 61 games at home, before a crowd of 46,336.

Mays' 38th homer and Kuenn's two-run shot off Braves' starter Bob Shaw gave Marichal (17-9) a 3-0 lead held with one-hit hurling for six innings. Del Crandall's three-run homer in the seventh brought about a deadlock the Giants quickly broke in their half against Carl Willey (1-5) on a walk to Chuck Miller, a single by Orlando Cepeda and Felipe Alou's grounder. Mays saved it in the eighth when he thrust his glove above the center field fence to haul in Eddie Mathews bid for a two-run homer.

Trailing 6-1, the Pirates came back to tie on Roberto Clemente's two-run third-inning triple. Bill Virdon's homer in the fifth and

George Shaw, Tracy Top Waiver List As NFL Trims Rosters to Minimum

Aussies Rated Big Favorites At Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The 82nd edition of the National Tennis championships opened today at the West Side Tennis Club with the prospect that it may be another 82 years before the Aussies lose the title.

For the past six years, the Aussies have headed Underdog in the day by Cleveland. Defensive backs Dick Mastardi, Bob McNamara and Jamie Caley also were let go by Minnesota, along with linebacker Karl Rukke and center Dick Green.

Will Renfro, another NFL veteran, was also waived by the Eagles as was linebacker Doyle Shick by the Washington Redskins and defensive halfback Bob Harjono, a starter in 1961, by Baltimore.

Injuries forced a change in personnel on some rosters. Defensive back Tom Brookshire, who hasn't fully recovered from a broken right leg suffered last November, and rookie offensive guard Bill Byrne of Boston College were placed on the injured reserve list by Philadelphia.

"There's certainly no sharper amateur in the world today," shrugged the easy-going Emerson. "Rod has beaten them all time and again with ease. He has got to be the favorite. I'll be right there plugging as usual, but I shudder when I compare my record with Rod's this year."

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

SEASONAL POLLINATION

Many people think of hay fever in terms of ragweed because the majority of victims are bothered by the pollen of this plant. But many persons are allergic to the pollen of trees and grasses. The difference lies in the timing. Ragweed usually pollinates at this time of the year in the Midwest whereas other plants do their lovemaking in the spring and early summer.

The hay fever problem varies in different parts of the country because climate determines when the 34 major offending trees, grasses, and weeds undergo pollination. There is no area in the nation where all of them grow all the time. Grasses and trees grow in some regions, for example, but not ragweed.

This is important to know when the physician is asked by a sneezy person to find the cause of hay fever. Texas heads the list with 27 culprits. In Florida and the Gulf states there are only 16 major pollens and the season ends in November.

This means a Florida physician need not test his hay fever patient for all 34 pollens; he can concentrate on the prevalent 16. The individual may even be sensitive to something that does not grow in that state but it is obvious there is no need for concern because it is not playing a role.

Furthermore, when sneezing continues into December, the possibility of another type of allergen or a respiratory infection becomes more likely.

Most hay fever sufferers in this country can expect relief by September or October, when the pollination season is over. If there is a continuation of nasal congestion, sneezing, and red swollen eyelids—blame dust, the family cat or dog, or the common cold. A few months later, the cycle begins again with tree and grass pollen in the south, southwest, and southern California.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Hungry Husband
Mrs. L. S. writes: My husband, who weighed 190 pounds a few weeks ago, now weighs 170. He eats raw vegetables a lot and ransacks the refrigerator during the night. He has three meals a day besides but still feels weak. What should he do to regain this weight?

Reply
We are so accustomed to thinking of weight loss in terms of diet we forget a person can lose weight because of a physical or an emotional disorder. Ask your husband to see his physician unless he knows why he dropped 20 pounds.

Pencil Mark
R. K. writes: Our young grandson accidentally poked a lead pencil into his cheek several weeks ago. The black mark at the point of puncture remains. Can anything be done to eradicate it?

Reply
Time will tell whether the pigment will remain in the skin as a tattoo. Removal is possible via surgery or a wire brush.

Anemia and Drugs
E. S. writes: Do the tablets for diabetes tend to cause anemia?

Reply
This has been reported but is unusual. There are several anti-diabetic tablets and another type should be tried if anemia of this origin occurs. The individual always can fall back on insulin, if necessary.

Ice Headache
R. G. writes: Why do I develop pain over my eyes or on top of my head after drinking ice cold water?

Reply
This type of headache is a form of referred pain caused by the stimulation of certain nerve endings in the roof of the mouth by the near freezing liquid.

Baptist Claims Some Favor Blast At Jacqueline

DENVER (UPI) — A Colorado Baptist official who criticized a public appearance by President Kennedy in a bathing suit and the decorum of the President's wife in Italy said today reaction to his statements has been running about "50-50."

The Rev. Willis Ray, executive secretary-treasurer of the Colorado Baptist General Convention, wrote a letter to Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., last week to see if anything could be done.

"The reaction is about 50-50," he said. "They seem to be extreme in view on both sides, but there are a lot of people who agree with me."

"Most of the people who are opposed to my position say I was thinking this was something immoral. I don't think the President and his wife have high moral standards."

"And I see nothing wrong with the President swimming in a private pool. But to get out in the public like that, with admirers hanging on him, just doesn't look good."

Mr. Ray, in his letter to Morse, took note of a picture of Kennedy swimming in California with admirers, some fully clothed, splashing in the surf to get close to him.

He also said his criticism of the first lady was directed not only to her late hours on her Italian vacation, but also a picture of her appearing in "tight slacks," pedal pushers during the vacation.

Columist Pasquale Marranzino of the Rocky Mountain News at Denver said in an editorial today he thought Ray "did some of his flock a disservice in maligning the first family."

Marranzino said Kennedy was "wearing well the weight of the mad world on his shoulders" and Mrs. Kennedy "has brought brilliance, beauty, vigor and a human touch to that austere white prison on Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington."

Ray said he had not yet heard from Morse. Asked if he had a reason for writing to Morse instead of Colorado Sen. Gordon Allott or John A. Carroll, he replied:

"Yes, sir, I did. Senator Morse has taken a stand on several moral issues. I wrote to him because of his convictions. And also he's a senior senator and I thought he might be old enough to talk to a young man."

Anti-Semitism Feared by Jesuit Group Magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — America's Roman Catholic Jesuit magazine says some Jewish groups may produce an outbreak of anti-Semitism in this country if they continue to push for elimination of all religious practices in the public schools.

The weekly magazine, in an editorial in its Sept. 1 issue, says there have been "disturbing hints of heightened anti-Semitic feeling" since the U.S. Supreme Court decision banning a New York State official school prayer.

The editorial referred to the support given the decision by some Jewish groups and to the fact that Jews were among those petitioning the court in the New York case.

The magazine said it would be "most unfortunate if the entire Jewish community were to be blamed for the unrelenting pressure tactics of a small but overly vocal segment within it."

The editorial was described by Dr. Joachim Prinz, president of the American Jewish Congress, as containing "thinly veiled threats of anti-Semitism."

He said it was "a sorry day for religious liberty" when "so respectable a journal of opinion as 'America' should resort to such alleged threats, because Jews have supported efforts to protect constitutional guarantees."

America has scored the high court's decision as a step toward secularization of the nation.

Southern Ute Indian Land Swap Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House subcommittee today approved a bill authorizing the government to trade 2,200 acres of public land on the Archuleta Mesa to the Southern Ute Indians for 707 acres of reservation lands.

The tracts are of approximate equal value. The government needs the Ute land, in connection with construction of the Navajo reclamation project, according to the Interior Department.

The subcommittee also approved a measure permitting the Southern Utes to lease their lands for terms up to 99 years for specified purposes. Present law limits the leases to 25 years.

CLIMBER FALLS
SONDRIO, Italy (UPI) — An Italian mountain climber fell 982 feet from the slopes of the Gran Zebu mountain near here Sunday — and lived.

Pietro Fige, 39, of Bolzano, plunged into fresh snow several feet deep to cushion his fall. Doctors said he fractured an arm and was bruised but was not in serious condition.

Man Survives Operation Of Being Cut in Half

NEW YORK (AP)—A man cut in half to a possible restoration. The man chose the operation. Last October the team headed by Dr. Aust severed him at the navel in an operation that required four and a half hours.

Surgeons at the University of Minnesota Hospitals, where the operation was performed to remove the legs and pelvis, believe it is the first of its kind in which a patient has survived for any length of time.

The backbone was severed at the level of the navel, but no vital organs or intestine were removed, doctors said.

The normal outlets for waste materials had to be relocated, and the patient continues to have a catheter or tube in his bladder.

Six surgeons, three nurses and one anesthesiologist took part in the operation.

The amazing case was presented in a report to the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation meeting here. University of Minnesota staff members who prepared the paper were Dr. J. Bradley Aust, associate professor of surgery, who headed the operating team; Dr. Frederic J. Kotke, head of the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation; and two other members of the department, Dr. Walter J. Dawson and Dr. Jessie K. M. Easton.

Identity of the 30-year-old patient is being withheld by physicians.

This is his history, as detailed at a Minneapolis press conference by Drs. Aust, Kotke and Easton in advance of today's session.

He was paralyzed from the waist down from birth with a spina bifida—a two-pronged spine which is open over the spinal cord.

As an infant in a poor family, he got poor care. An ulcer on his buttocks was aggravated by his confinement and lack of control over elimination of waste matters.

It became a huge sore and cancer began its deadly work, as the young man lay listlessly on his bed day and night.

Other doctors had thrown up their hands in defeat. Death seemed certain within one year.

Finally, at the age of 29, the man was taken to University Hospital and given the choice of limited days with useless limbs and

APPLICATION DENIED

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Mrs. Loretta Mae Walker's application for a beer permit was turned down Tuesday when neighbors objected that their children love the pizza sold in Mr. Walker's restaurant and should not have to eat it where beer is sold.

"If we had let it go, it would have cost him his life anyway," Dr. Aust said at the news conference.

The important question in this case is—can you make a useful citizen of a man with this great handicap?

He and Dr. Kotke pointed out the man still has his troubles. He has a kidney problem, although waste matter is carried out operations.

"And we don't know yet whether we have cured his cancer," added Dr. Aust, who said it may take four or five years to determine whether traces of the disease have been removed.

But the university team says that Patient X is making a heroic struggle to redeem the wasted years.

He can lift himself with a trap-eze into a fiber reinforced plastic body jacket, bolted to a wheel chair. Then he moves about, to the woodwork tale at a therapy center where he enjoys making such things as breadboards. With a leather tooling kit he makes belts, purses and billfolds.

He is also studying the arithmetic and reading he never had a chance to learn as a boy and has an IQ of 80 to 100.

Dr. Kotke estimates he may have a life expectancy of other paraplegics, perhaps 20 more years or better. He said the man may be skilled enough to find gainful employment within one year.

The patient has his ups and downs mentally, but is not under psychiatric care.

Someone asked the man why he had chosen the operation, and he replied, "because I wanted to live."

Local Man New Toastmasters Area Governor

Jim Phillips, a Ft. Carson key civilian, was installed Sunday Aug. 26 in Denver as the governor of the nation's highest area of Toastmasters International.

His area extends from Climax to Colorado Springs. Other clubs in the area are Kit Carson Air Force Academy, Farmers Insurance Group, Leadville and Salida. Phillips is a Kit Carson past president and three-year member.

He will coordinate area inter-club activities, make periodic visits and arrange area participation in Toastmaster District 28 (Colorado) programs.

Phillips has been manager and chief engineer of KCH, Carson U. S. Army Hospital closed-circuit radio station, since March, 1954, when he came from Camp Atterbury, Ind. He has more than 18 years of federal service in audio-visual and communications specialties.

His hospital radio duties include training and supervision of operators, use and maintenance of existing equipment, engineering and supervision of the installation of new equipment for the hospital radio paging system, audio-visual nurse-patient call system, central dictating system, and other communications systems.

He is available for consultation.

JIM PHILLIPS

on audio-visual matters to other Carson and 5th Infantry Division sections.

Phillips is safety officer for the hospital and non-divisional medical units, a member of the Carson suggestion awards committee and the U. S. Board of Civil Service Examiners.

A York Rite Mason, he is a past master of Zabud Council No. 9 and Bryant Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at Battle Creek, Mich.

He lives at 1829 Northview Drive, Colorado Springs.

U.S. Canadian Fraternity Members Meet

Delta Chi fraternity members from throughout the U. S. and Canada met at the Antlers Hotel this morning for a first round of conferences at the fraternity's 1962 biennial convention at the Antlers Hotel.

Lewis S. Armstrong, president, Seattle, Wash., will preside over the convention which continues thru Friday. Other officers are Claude B. Layfield, secretary, Auburn, Ala.; and L. Harold Anderson, treasurer, San Francisco, Calif.

The fraternity, founded in 1890, now has 46 undergraduate chapters and 16 alumni chapters with approximately 18,000 members. The headquarters office is in Iowa City, Ia.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Little Rebecca McGuire was taken to the hospital last Wednesday morning with spinal meningitis and was having convulsions. But she is reported to be much better, and is expected to be able to return to her home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ross and family and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ross and family, of Colorado Springs, attended church at Hanover Community Church Sunday morning, Aug. 26, and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette. Mrs. Vette is an aunt of both the Rosses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson and family, of Denver, came down to be with Wayne's father. Several relatives from Oklahoma have been visiting the Ben Dicksons.

Jerry and Ruth Christian, from Greeley, spent last week with the Dicksons and girls arrived from Abilene, Tex. Monday Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dickson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Dickson and boys, all of Oklahoma, also, visited the Dicksons Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dickson and family had been here earlier for a visit.

Homer and Marg Carpenter and family recently purchased a 10-acre tract southeast of where Robert Chisman lives, on St. Charles Mesa, southeast of Pueblo.

Congressman Wants 'Tailender' Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—One congressman who wants to go home is hopefully sponsoring a "tailender" party this week.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., sent out rhymed invitations to the Wednesday evening event saying:

"If you're tired like I am of this session's tailender,
"Come join your colleagues and me in one heck of a bender."

CAVEIN CASUALTY

DENVER (UPI)—A construction worker was killed in a trench cavein in Arapahoe County Monday. The victim was identified as Joseph D. Shields, 46, of Englewood. Colo. Shields and Julian Maldonado, 49, of Denver, were working in the ditch when it collapsed, but Maldonado was able to free himself. Both men were working for the Hughes Construction Co.

MOSCOW — Russian hydroelectric engineers will begin work this summer on a new power plant in Afghanistan.

Bullet in Brain Does Not Stop Boy in Class

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Donal Fligor Jr. has the usual teen-ager's ravenous appetite.

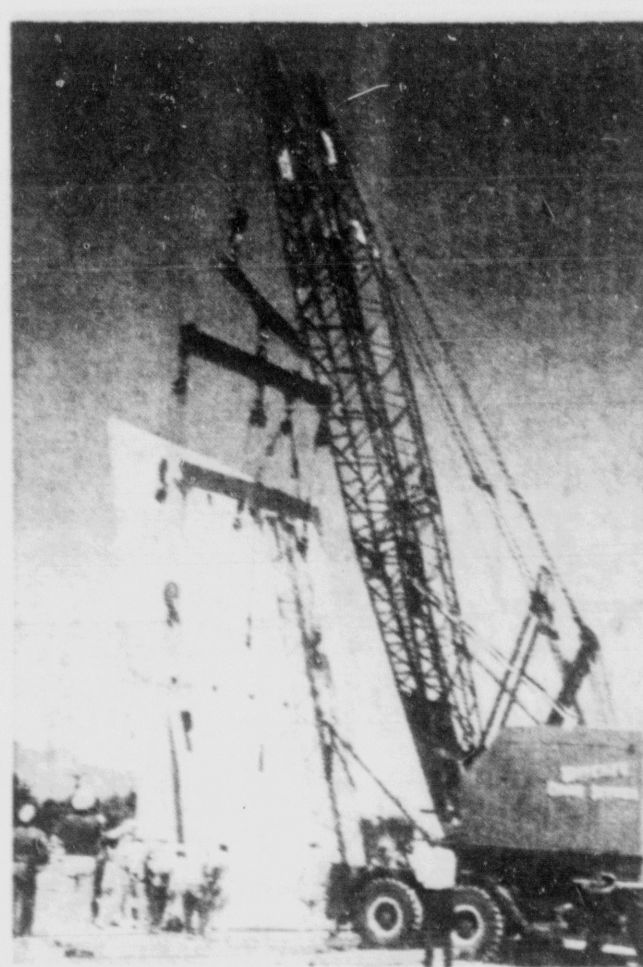

Don jokes a lot and looks forward to returning to his junior high school classes next month. But Don gets dizzy sometimes and has a headache.

The 14-year-old youth has a 22-caliber bullet lodged in his brain. He was accidentally shot in the left temple by a young friend. Doctors at Columbus Children's Hospital felt it was too risky to operate.

Don was kept packed in ice for 10 days. His body temperature was dropped from the normal 98.6 to 86 degrees to slow his circulation and reduce the pressure on the brain. Doctors say they believe scar tissue will build around the bullet and hold it in place.

The youth spent 16 days in the hospital and came home to Springfield last Sunday. On Sept. 7, Don will have an examination. The results will probably determine whether he can go back to school this fall and how much activity he can have.

33-TON SLAB—Two gigantic 45-ton cranes hoist a 33-ton slab of concrete into place to form the first portion of the exterior walls of the Chidlaw Building, being constructed for Air Defense Command. Sixty-eight of the 24' x 32' slabs will be used to enclose the 300,000 square feet of floor space. (Air Force Photo)

Russians Seek Plans Against Common Market

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union convened a meeting of Marxist economists from a score of nations today to discuss how to deal with such Western economic challenges as the European Common Market.

A 10,000-word article published in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda Sunday, sharply condemning Western capitalism in general and the Common Market in particular, provided what apparently will be the main working paper of the conference.

The article was prepared by the Institute of World Economics and International Relations of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, sponsor of the conference. The theme of the conference is "The Problems of Modern Capitalism."

The Pravda article accused the Common Market six — France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands — of fostering German militarism, exploiting the working classes and timing the economies of underdeveloped nations to "the whole coalition of imperialist powers."

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev also personally attacked the Common Market in a signed article in the party's ideological monthly, Communist. The article has been circulating in the West in international communism's journal titled "Problems of Peace and Socialism."

Poet From Pakistan Given Lenin Prize

MOSCOW (AP)—Faiz Ahmad Faiz, a Pakistani poet, was presented an international Lenin prize Monday for the "promotion of peace among nations."

The prize includes 10,000 rubles — $11,000 — and a gold medal. Tass quoted the poet as responding with a call for all to "dump military rockets into the sea, dump all weapons into the sea."

ACVRA — Ghana's government has formed the National Trading Co. It will be the country's largest firm.

SLUG BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Judiciary Committee Monday approved a bill that would make it a federal crime to manufacture, sell or use slugs that could be sent an international Lenin prize slipped into vending machines.

Miss Substitute's Head Bloody but Unbowed

The first time the principal phoned me to take over a teacherless class, I responded with real and enthusiasm. I couldn't wait to get to school, and begin imparting knowledge to an eager band of third graders, who would sit in wonder at my feet while I stimulated their inquiring little minds.

How I would do this, I didn't really know. But I assumed that due to smooth functioning of today's educational machinery, I would find lesson plans in the top desk drawer, a class schedule posted on the bulletin board, and a roomful of helpful children willing to guide me if at any point I faltered.

Six hours later, I was wondering if it were possible for 8 year olds to manipulate an adult to their own somewhat diabolical ends.

My bright-eyed students were smooth operators. When I explained a fine point of the arithmetic lesson, they assured me they had not been taught that way. "Miss So-and-So always said this," was a refrain I was to hear all day with appalling regularity.

Only Miss So-and-So, their regular teacher, knew how to teach. I didn't. I could not deviate from the book. I could not inject my own ideas. They obviously were barely tolerating me till the day was over and I would, they hoped, be gone forever.

The lesson plans were in the top drawer. But there was no register of the students' names. There was no schedule of periods. When I queried the class of what came when, I inadvertently created a furious storm. They all argued at once.

"No, no, we have our show-and-tell time first," one contingent shouted.

"No, no, we start with our new words," raged the rebuttal.

I did the only thing possible. I told them I didn't care what they or Miss So-and-So did, showed or told. I would teach them—in my own way, and for better or worse, they'd take it.

But they still had the bit in their teeth. When a bell rang at 11:40, they dropped their books, lined up at the door and marched off to lunch, without a by-your-leave from me.

I wondered where and how I ate. Did I follow them ignominiously? Or was I to feast in a faculty dining room, and have a longed-for cigarette? A teacher passing by told me to follow her, which was at least more comfortable than following my high-handed third graders.

By 2 o'clock, with pains crawling down the back of my neck and a hand that shook when it held a pencil, I nevertheless felt I was at last leading my class, not following it. They permitted me to gabble on about contagion and disease, even if I strayed from the book. In the driver's seat at last, I exulted.

The door opened, and a strange man walked in and sat down next to me, saying not a word. Should I stop teaching and acknowledge his presence? Was he some sort of supervisor sent in to witness my inadequacy?

I chose to ignore him, and regaled the class with stories of Rocky Mountain fever and other interesting folklore.

Suddenly he leaned over and hissed at me, "Be sure to let them out at 2:40 to get their buses," and walked out.

He need not have counseled me. Promptly at 2:35 my little clock-watchers rushed to their lockers, dived into their snowsuits, buttoned their boots, and evacuated, with cries of "Do you ride on C-49 or J-11 today?"

I lingered on for a moment in the peaceful stillness, thinking the principal would come in to thank me, or that some official would acknowledge my presence. Nobody came. The staff was evacuating too.

At the office, the secretary told me to sign the register without even looking at me. "You'll get paid next week."
